NIGHTMARE NEAR BAMFIELD

Flaming Sea Swim Survived By Men

PORT ALBERNI—Two Alberni Valley men survived a nightmare swim through a sea aflame with gasoline after their 28-foot boat exploded shortly after 2.30 p.m., Tuesday, in Kelp Bay, near Bamfield.

In West Coast General Hospital, after having been plucked from a rocky reef on Vancouver Island's rugged west coast, is James McDonnell, about 27, suffering from burns to the face, arms and hands. He is reported to be in fair condition.

Skipper of the small craft, George Chamberland, Alberni, escaped with minor burns. Chamberland said the explosion occurred as the small boat, the Tide Water, employed on salvage work, plied between Nah Point and Bamfield.

BATTERY EXPLODED

He said McDonnell was trying to start the motor after an engine failure when the battery exploded, igniting a cargo of gasoline. The boat was still some distance from shore when the explosion took place.

Both men had to dive overboard into the blazing sea. McDonnell spent more than half an hour in the water, swimming below the waves for as long as possible while the surface burned. He is reported to have come up twice for air during the brief but fierce fire. Suffering agonies from the salt water in his burns, McDonnell finally crawled ashore onto the rocks to await rescue, without assistance of any kind he lay for one and a half hours before the pilot boat Raleigh came to his aid.

A passing aircraft is believed to have raised the first alarm on seeing smoke from the burning boat, at that time aground on a reef. An emergency call to Bamfield saw the pilot boat rush to the aid of the stricken men with Bamfield lifeboat standing by.

On returning to the cable station town, both men received first aid from an unidentified nurse. "I don't know who that girl was, but she deserves all the praise in the world," Chamberland told the Times.

Pacific Western Airlines put on an emergency flight to bring the men to Port Alberni, where they were treated by Dr. R. A. Burns. Chamberland was released after treatment, but McDonnell is still in hospital.

Chamberland said McDonnell was "terrific. He behaved like a real soldier. He was wonderful, but refused to talk about his own share in the experience."

Wife of a Gordon Head soldier was injured when the car in which she was riding was in collision with another vehicle at 12.45 p.m. today at the intersection of Union and Cumberland.

Extent of her injuries or her name were not known at press time.

The accident took place in front of the home of W. McCulloch, 1198 Union.

The injured woman was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by police ambulance.

Mayor Raises Flag to Mark UN Birthday

The blue and white United Nations flag was raised on the Causeway flagpole at 11 a.m. today by Mayor Percy Scurrell, marking the 11th anniversary of the signing of the UN charter.

The ceremony was organized by J. H. Ford, president, and Mrs. Rene Archibald, vice-president, Victoria branch of the United Nations Association, and members.

In drizzling rain with 15 members of the Victoria High School band and a handful of spectators on hand, the mayor spoke briefly on the value of the UN and necessity for support of its actions.

'Down With Russia ...'

Tonight in Warsaw troops stood idly by as a crowd of 2,000 students brought traffic to a standstill by marching through Warsaw streets shouting "down with Russia."

Wladyslaw Gomulka, first secretary of the party, addressed a mass meeting this afternoon in the enormous square before Warsaw's 35-story palace of culture. (See Gomulka profile, page 7.)

Gomulka told a cheering crowd "the Russian troops will be back inside their bases inside of 48 hours."

Close to 250,000 persons heard his pledge.

Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz earlier today told the Russians forcefully Poland's relations with the Soviet Union in the future will be based on full equality. His address to Parliament followed reports the Soviet Communist boss, Nikita S. Khrushchev, had backed down in his quarrel with the Poles and apologized.

EYE-WITNESS

Hundreds Lying Dead In Streets

NICKELSDORF, Austria (BUP)—A Viennese eyewitness to the Budapest uprising told the United Press at this Austrian border village today that "at least 350 persons have been killed so far in the Budapest uprising."

The eyewitness, who came here by car, said "a great number of jet fighters have been roaring over Budapest since early this morning."

"The jets repeatedly opened fire on groups of demonstrators," he said.

"I woke up this morning, disturbed by thundering machine-gun fire and artillery explosions," he said.

He said Budapest inhabitants are "convinced that people are also revolting against the regime in cities of Debrecen, Szolnok and Szeged."

"When I left Budapest after noon today I saw a great number of dead soldiers and civilians in the streets," he added. "Driving was extremely dangerous since the shooting still was underway."

Deadline Extended

OTTAWA (CP)—Deadline for deliveries of uranium by companies with special premium price contracts has been extended by one year to March 31, 1963, Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. announced today.

The crown-owned company said in a statement that the modification will affect only those producers which will not obtain a full write-off of capital and preproduction expenditure under the existing arrangement.

Germans still lay claim to areas taken over by the Poles after the Second World War. Cyrankiewicz said members of the Polish Communist politburo will meet with members of the Soviet Communist presidium next week.

Rebels Defy Ultimatum

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

VIENNA—Budapest radio announced tonight that anti-Soviet rebels fighting Russian and Hungarian soldiers in Budapest had defied the latest government ultimatum to surrender, and that a state of emergency had been declared.

Fighting was raging in the city.

Russian troops, tanks and heavy armored cars ranged through Budapest streets echoing with machine gun and rifle fire, first eyewitnesses to reach the west reported.

Two German businessmen who arrived at the Austro-Hungarian border said "heavy street fighting was going on" when they left the Hungarian capital this morning. They said that "Russian tanks and heavy armored cars had blocked almost every street intersection" in downtown Budapest.

"Russian troops have completely surrounded the city in a circle with a diameter of 30 kilometers (18½ miles)."

"When we left the Hotel Duna this morning we heard machine gun fire and rifle shots all over the city."

"Fire has been set to several Communist party shops and official buildings," one of the businessmen said.

"We thought war had broken out again."

"At one of the street intersections we passed on the way out of town, we saw one dead Russian soldier lying beside a Soviet tank."

The businessmen added that ambulances were rushing through the streets of Budapest before they left.

They said the main highway to Budapest is blocked by Russian troops about 18 miles west of the capital.

Foreigners are permitted to leave the city, but none can enter it, they said.

They said the country looks quiet between Budapest and the Hungarian border but several road blocks with armed Russian soldiers have been established.

Jet Fighters Open Fire

Hours after martial law had been proclaimed throughout the country, it was reported that jet fighters opened fire on "counter revolutionaries" near the Houses of Parliament.

The number of civilians and soldiers killed was not reported. It did not say whether the planes were Soviet or Hungarian jets.

The rebellion spread outside the capital city.

Radio Budapest said "rioters vainly tried to take over the magnesium mines of Tatabanya and Salgotarjan," northwest of the capital.

It was the first official mention that the revolt was not confined to Budapest.

Budapest radio was the only connecting link between the revolt-wrecked country and the outside world. All telephone and telegraph communication was cut—even to Moscow.

Budapest radio was giving a blow by blow report of history in the making—the first full scale report in the Soviet Union's eastern European empire.

What started as an intra-Communist struggle for power was now raging as a revolt against the government with anti-Communist apparently rising against Red Hungarian rule and Russian influence here.

Budapest radio described the rebels variously as "fascists," "counter-revolutionaries" and "misguided workers."

And they were armed.

Food Problem Encountered

Imre Nagy, deposed as government head last summer because of "rightist deviation," was returned to power in the bloody early hours today.

But popular as he was, he could not stop the juggernaut of rebellion raging through the beautiful Danube River city.

His voice shaking with excitement, the round-faced premier broadcast a personal appeal before noon asking rebels to lay down their arms.

Those who surrendered, he said, would not be prosecuted. The fighting continued.

The entire life of the city was disrupted.

Budapest radio said "serious difficulties" were already developing in supplying food.

At the same time it defied the presence of Soviet troops in the country and apparently in the thick of the fighting.

His voice betraying his own emotion, the announcer stolidly read his script saying "you should cordially welcome the Russian soldiers as friends and allies."

Workers walked off their jobs and joined in the fighting.

Budapest radio's pulse-tling account of a revolution in progress was mixed incongruously with solemn opera music.

"Workers return to your jobs," the announcer appealed.

"We are calling on all Communist and party activities to aid our party and government in these serious hours."

Several clinics and hospitals came under heavy fire when rioters tried to seize control of them, Budapest radio said.

CHANNEL 5 INTERFERENCE LESS THAN FIRST FEARED

Most TV Sets to Need Adjusting When CHEK Opens Next Month

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor
When local television station CHEK-TV comes on the air in mid-November most Victorian viewers will be hit either in their reception of adjacent Channel 5 or in the pocket book—or both.

To what degree, however, will be determined by their proximity to the Saanich transmitter at 3693 Epsom Drive, and how badly they want to receive the maximum local picture.

These were the facts presented before 126 television engineers and technicians meeting in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Building, Tuesday evening.

The meeting was sponsored jointly by CHEK-TV and members of the Victoria chapter of Radio Electronics Technicians' Association.

It was admitted by most speakers, however, their findings could not be considered final until CHEK-TV was on the air. Until then their disclosures, they stressed, should be considered theoretical.

Here, in brief, were their thoughts:

1. When Channel 6 begins operating almost all Victoria's 25,500 set owners will need the aid of a serviceman to tune up their sets and adjust their aerials so that maximum efficiency can be attained.

2. Set owners in that area roughly 0.8 miles from the transmitter site will be the hardest hit. Some of the oldest sets will be made obsolete. All will need the installation of traps and antenna additions and adjustments.

3. Except in the hard-hit area Channel 6 interference with Channel 5 reception may be lighter than first anticipated. Speakers were optimistic that all adjacent channel interference could be overcome by technicians.

4. Although no prices were quoted at the meeting it was Continued on Page 2

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—At least 53 persons, mostly Europeans, today were reported killed in Morocco in rioting touched off by France's seizure of five Algerian rebel leaders.

Manning Says He's Studying 'Dividends'

learned afterwards such corrections and amendments would cost local viewers anywhere from $5 to $20.

Norman Bergquist, chief engineer CHEK-TV, outlined the area most influenced by the new channel as north to Blenkinsop Lake, south to Derby Road, east to Cedar Hill Road, west to Quadra Street.

R. J. Tate, manager of R.C.A., Victoria, was more detailed. He defined the area as "that surrounded by the heights along Richmond from Victoria College, running north along Mt. Leinster, cutting along Gordon Head Road and long the edge of Mt. Douglas; then down to Quadra Street and Union Avenue following a line along Quadra and Cook, up Hillside to a point beyond the intersection of Fernwood with a finger running down toward the Jubilee Hospital."

Whereas nothing could be done for some of the oldest type sets in this area, Sid Spencer, RETA president, told the technicians that reception could be saved for most by addition of a special antenna pointed directly at the transmitter, plus a trap that would reduce the power of the signal and so bring sharpness and clarity and reduce ghosting for the local picture and cut down excessive interference with Channel 5.

It was felt by other speakers, including Mr. Tate, that when viewers see reception from CHEK-TV they will want to bring it in at its maximum efficiency. This, he observed, in most instances, and in all sections of the city, would require an additional aerial, one pointed directly at the transmitter.

During the evening a demonstration was conducted by Roy Parrett, a radio supply company representative and local TV columnist, and Arthur L. Whitehead, an electronic equipment representative, showing disturbances to be expected on Channel 5 when Channel 6 is on the air.

During the experiment channel 6 was actually on the air. At one side of the stage a set was receiving a cowboy film from channel 5. On the other side a set carried the channel 6 pattern. So long as the output ratio was two-to-one channel 5 remained good. When, however, the power of 6 was upped 5 suffered in ratio.

But a feeling of optimism remained in the conference room following the demonstration that channel 6 would not interfere with channel 5 as much as was anticipated originally.

Herbert Hoyles, Westinghouse consulting engineer from Vancouver, said he felt that most areas would receive channel 6 and channel 5 without trouble or having to add additional equipment. However, he admitted that a "reflected signal," one coming from the topography of the country side, or boomed off buildings, might be evidenced and thus "throw our calculations all off."

During the evening David M. Armstrong, president of CHEK-TV, and Charles R. White, station manager, stressed that they wanted channels 6 and 5 to be able to "live" together.

Said Mr. Armstrong: "We'd rather get our audience by good programs and good reception rather than by knocking our opposition off the screen and running the risk of alienating the public."

The meeting was chaired by Vince Mielen, past president of RETA. He was also moderator of the round-table discussion.

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning said Tuesday Alberta's Social Credit government is still studying the possibility of some system of returning directly to individual citizens some financial benefit from the province's natural resources revenue.

"I wouldn't say we are planning anything," he said at a press conference. But the subject was under "detailed study," Mr. Manning first announced in the legislature three years ago the intentions to have the study made.

He said 90 per cent of Alberta's resources are owned by the province and the government feels that the citizens should get some direct financial benefit in one form or another.

B.C. Homes Impress Russian Timbermen

Soviet timber minister G. M. Orlov and the Russian forestry delegation were to leave Vancouver Island this afternoon after a final look at logging operations at Northwest Bay, north of Nanaimo. This morning they toured woods adjacent to the MacMillan & Bloedel operation with manager B. P. Page in charge of the party.

Mr. Orlov said he intended to take back B.C. house designs, plans, and building methods when he returns to Russia. He said he was "very impressed" with houses he has seen here.

The delegation had previously toured timber industry installations near Ladysmith and Nanaimo. It is scheduled to leave for Ottawa from Vancouver Thursday.

AUDIENCE LOVES 'EM Cossack Singers Inspiring, Superb

By B.A.T.

The General Platoff Don Cossacks rode again Tuesday night, with the clip-clop of horses' hooves, the yells and whistles of galloping soldiers, the flash of Cossack knives and the inspired singing that has brought this chorus world fame.

There were a few new faces since their appearance here two years ago, a few known faces missing, but there was no diminution in the quality of soloists or chorus. More than 1,000 persons filled the Central Junior High School auditorium, wildly applauded every number and called for more.

It was all there, and the audience loved it—the interlude with the pitch-pipe between each song, the mincing entrance of the conductor through the opened ranks of singers, the comic by-play, and above all the magnificent range of volume and tone that is the identifying attribute of this group.

The first section of the program was appropriately devoted to the Russian hymns which bring out so clearly the organ-like capacity of the chorus. Under the fingertip control of director Nicholas Kostukoff, the choir held the audience spellbound with Tschalkovsky's "Blessed Be the Lord," the lullaby-like "Hymn to the Creator," and the old favorite, "Ave Maria" and "Those Evening Bells."

From the full volume of the bass section the perfectly controlled choir would merge imperceptibly into a muted tenor passage, the last whispered chord hanging in the darkened air until the listeners could not tell whether they were hearing it or breathing it.

Parts two and three were devoted to Cossack songs and folk tunes, the chuckling "Snowball Tree" providing a fitting prelude to the laughing "Song of the Flea." The familiar "Sad Snow Over the Steppes" featured ing tenor soloist Kenneth Lane, was particularly popular. Bartones G. Kelkuvot and J. Assur also won applause.

As in previous performances, Cossack Lezhinka and dagger dancers added color and warmth to the evening. There was, however, only one heard among the score of singers—a relatively modest affair in the style of the late Czar Nicholas.

The chorus left immediately after the performance, traveling by bus to Nanaimo en route to an engagement tonight in Tacoma. The concert was sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis Club, net proceeds going to the Kiwanis Junior Safety Patrol.

Canadian Spells Out to U.S. Objections to Give-Aways

TOLEDO (CP)—Guy Smith, commercial counselor at the Canadian embassy in Washington, said today the much-publicized American surplus wheat disposal problem is "absolutely nothing" compared with the wheat surplus problem faced by Canada.

And yet, he told the Canadian-United States Business Conference here, Americans "appear to be much more concerned over it than we are."

Analyzing the American problem, he said the U.S. surplus appears as less than half a year's supply.

Canada will have a full year's supply left over, he said.

Dulles 'In Game Too Long!' Stevenson Urges Aid to Poland

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson accused the Eisenhower administration Tuesday night of world-wide failure in foreign policy and told a cheering crowd in Madison Square Garden that State Secretary Dulles has been kept "in the ball game one brink too long."

Stevenson urged all possible aid in helping Poland toward freedom. His speech was resoundingly applauded by a crowd which did not fill the famed New York sports amphitheatre.

The Democratic presidential candidate assailed Dulles and Vice-President Nixon by name and mentions of them were greeted by loud booing.

Under Dulles' tenure as secretary of state, Stevenson said, American policy has been "blundering vacillation" and has seen the world turned into "a trail of gunpowder from Korea to Cyprus."

In a major campaign speech,

Sharp Disagreement on H-Bomb

Earlier President Eisenhower agreed with Stevenson the U.S. should offer all possible encouragement to Poland, but he sharply disagreed with the Democrat on banning H-bomb tests.

The president, releasing a lengthy report by administration officials, reiterated his stand that the U.S. can not halt H-bomb testing without dependable worldwide disarmament controls. Meanwhile, the U.S. must make sure its weapons command sufficient respect to "dissuade any other nation from the temptation of aggression."

Eisenhower, addressing the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in Washington, said America has a mission "to expand the areas in which free men, free governments can flourish."

As part of that mission, the U.S. must "help those freedom-loving peoples who need and want and can profitably use our aid that they may advance in their ability for self-government and may add strength to the security and peace of the world."

Albert Sargison, Native Son, Dies In San Francisco

A native son of Victoria, and formerly a well-known newspaper advertising man, Albert E. Sargison died in San Francisco Tuesday.

Mr. Sargison commenced work in the advertising department of the Daily Colonist before the First World War, and enlisted at its outbreak. He went overseas in command of an ammunition column, later transferred to the Royal Air Force.

He was invalided home, and after convalescence went to San Francisco with the California division of the General Electric Company. As a young man, he was active in sports. He will receive a Masonic funeral in San Francisco.

Surviving are two brothers, Harry, Victoria, and Reg, San Francisco, and one sister, Mrs. T. L. Hutchings, Vancouver.

Resignation of Archdeacon A. E. del. Nunns after 33 years as rector of St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, was announced Tuesday by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton.

A successor is expected to be named by the archbishop following a meeting with wardens and a church committee of St. Mary's next week. Archdeacon Nunns' retirement will become official in mid-January.

Although relieved of his parochial duties, he will continue to live in Victoria and will assist the archbishop when required. In accepting the resignation, Archbishop Sexton said: "Archdeacon Nunns is a genial Irish gentleman and one of the most capable and devoted parish priests in the Anglican communion."

The archdeacon graduated in arts from Trinity College, Dublin, in 1909 and also was awarded the Divinity Testimonial, the college's degree of theology. He was ordained by the Bishop of Derry.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATIONS THREATENED

Pay Up, or No Show, Indians Warn Gov't.

British Columbia's 36,000 native Indians may refuse to join in the province's Centennial celebrations in 1958, unless they are paid for land which they claim was stolen from them.

Andy Paull, president of the North American Indian Brotherhood, said Tuesday B.C. Indians would not join in the celebrations unless the provincial government meets in council with tribal leaders to settle the disposition of Indian territories.

Mr. Paull made this statement following a meeting he and 26 other Indians, including women and children, had with the B.C. cabinet. The delegation was led by Chief Mathias Joe wearing the full regalia of the Capilano tribe.

"Why should we take part in

Plenty Paid in U.S., Nothing Here

"It is impossible to figure how much the Indians have coming from this land but it must be a considerable sum. In the United States Indian tribes have received millions of dollars. We have had nothing. It was the policy of the British, he said, to meet Indians in council and he had asked the B.C. government to follow this practice. The meetings could be held anywhere—in a tepee if necessary.

Mr. Paull said the cabinet made "no commitments" so far as meeting the Indians in council but agreed to give full consideration to some of their requests presented in a brief at the two-hour meeting.

After the meeting, Premier Bennett said his government was sympathetic to some of the claims made by the delegation, particularly in regard to housing.

"We intend to investigate and see how their home conditions can be improved," the premier said. "I regard this as an historic meeting and I believe it will be of value in helping us to understand Indian problems."

Mr. Paull said he asked the cabinet if they would contribute any money to housing. The reply, he said, was that the government would co-operate if the Indians themselves agreed to make a contribution to the erection of homes.

"The cabinet was non-committal regarding our request for the repeal of section 75 of the B.C. Liquor Act which prohibits Indians from entering a liquor store," Mr. Paull continued.

"They said some of our requests, such as exemption from income tax, were federal matters. But they agreed to look into proposals which come under provincial jurisdiction."

These included a demand that Indians living on reservations should be exempt from the 5 per cent sales tax, and a request for an appropriation so that beaver may be restocked in certain areas, as is now done in Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Mr. Paull said the delegates came from many parts of the province, including Cranbrook, Hazelton and Kamloops. One of them—Richard Malloway from Sardis—pleaded with the cabinet to build an old people's home for the Indian population.

"I don't know what happened to this money but it vanished as far as we are concerned."

Mr. Paull added that in 1916 the Indian tribes of British Columbia sent a delegation to King George V to plead their case but "nothing came of it."

The Better to See You With

By PEGGY LIDSTONE
Home Lighting Specialist

The charm and comfort of your home depend, to a large extent, on the way that it is lighted.

The simplest room may appear luxurious if your lamps are well chosen and well placed. But bad lighting can make the most furnished room seem uninviting.

There are two main types of illumination—general and local.

The general lighting of a room should produce a softly diffused light. This should be augmented by local lights distributed where they will be of most use—at those places in a room where reading, writing or sewing is to be done.

It is neither beautiful nor healthful to look into a light that glares. No local light should be more than ten times as bright as the general illumination of the room.

Lamps should be low enough to group with your furniture, yet above your line of vision. They will be most attractive if they are all at the same height.

When your day has been hard and your only thought is to sink into a favourite armchair, that is the time to enjoy the soft, rosy glow of a G-E Deluxe Pink Bulb. These new bulbs supply a glamorous light that flatters both faces and furnishings. They throw new light on the whole subject of how best to light your home!

You can buy G-E Deluxe Pink Bulbs in 60, 100 or 150 watts. They are also available in Tri-Light and Decorator shapes.

Bennett Picks His Quarrel

FOR THE POLITICAL PURPOSES of Social Credit Mr. Bennett must pick a quarrel with the Liberal Government in Ottawa, must have an issue to argue in the national election next year. He has picked the quarrel and chosen the issue.

The Federal Government, says Mr. Bennett in the most remarkable statement on recent record, is deliberately conspiring to create unemployment in Canada by its policies of credit restraint.

Mr. Bennett, and other politicians of the Opposition, have accused the Federal Government of many blunders. Up to now no one has accused it of political insanity. No one has seen in it a will to suicide. In this most durable of all democratic governments Mr. Bennett alone perceives a hidden death-wish. He alone, in a high feat of imagination, believes that the Federal Government will desire unemployment on the eve of an election.

He must be almost alone, too, in believing that there is no danger of inflation in Canada and, hence no need to restrain the excessive expansion of the money supply, the cause of inflation.

The ablest economists in Washington and Ottawa see the symptoms of inflation in the ledgers of the money system. Even if they didn't the housewife would see those symptoms in the price of goods.

Mr. Bennett cannot see them, oddly enough, at the very moment when he is proposing to hand on to the consumers a new rise in the price of liquor, when Mr. Gagliardi regards contractors' bids as too high and is building certain roads himself and when the Government is looking desperately in other provinces for technical workers.

But, says Mr. Bennett, there is no reason to fear inflation when the supply of goods is abundant—plenty of food, minerals, oil, timber products and, indeed, just about everything except steel.

The fact remains, however, that in many segments of the economy there is not sufficient manpower and machinery to deliver all the finished goods that the consumers, with their present supply of money or credit, are demanding. The fact is that, in this inflationary situation, wages and prices are pushing upward. The only question is how this pressure should be relieved before it becomes unmanageable and inevitably, at some point, turns a boom into a bust.

Under these conditions there are only three courses open to any national government.

It can let nature take its course, let prices rise to the point where they discourage purchasers, assure a sudden fall in sales and thus a devastating deflation like those of the past.

It can attempt to control prices directly, as it did in the last war, which means, of course, fixing wages, probably rationing scarce goods and certainly regulating the whole economy from Ottawa. This the Federal Government has no constitutional power to do except in a national emergency like war. It lacks power even to control consumer credit which is under provincial jurisdiction.

Thirdly, the Federal Government can use its powers over the banking system and its indirect powers of persuasion over the business community and the consuming public to discourage an excessive demand for goods. And that is all the Government is trying to do by the interest rate policies attacked by Mr. Bennett.

Of course these measures are unpleasant. They are bound to hurt some people. But the alternative of a run-away inflation would be infinitely worse for everybody, ruinous to all living on fixed incomes and devastating to all fixed savings.

No government in its senses wants an inflation, followed by a deflation. No Canadian Government, under our constitution, can fix prices and regulate the whole economy, even if it wanted to. And no government now selling its bonds to the people (as Mr. Bennett is selling his) has any moral right to plan their repayment to the purchaser in devalued dollars.

Nevertheless, Mr. Bennett must have his quarrel with the national Government before the next election. As Social Credit tries to break into the next Parliament it must have more than a local quarrel affecting only the voters of British Columbia. It must appeal somehow to discontent all over the nation.

Therefore, Mr. Bennett selects as his target the anti-inflation policy of the Federal Government which certainly creates widespread discontent. He could properly attack the Federal Government on many scores. He has chosen the one issue on which the Government's policy is unquestionably sound and unassailable.

The Government should welcome this challenge, stand by its policy and trust to the common sense of the Canadian people, who apparently know the value of a dollar—the declining value—better than Mr. Bennett.

The Indispensable Raft

ON ITS ELEVENTH ANNIVERSARY today the United Nations cannot be said to have realized fully the high hopes of its sponsors back in 1945. Yet even with partial success it has proved indispensable to the maintenance of "coexistence" among the nations of the world.

While many major international disputes still remain on the U.N. agenda, with solutions apparently as far off as when the problems were first submitted, it is a fact that the world organization is unanimously recognized as the official agency for such settlements. It provides the conference room where quarrelling nations can gather—a twentieth century substitute for the battlefields which might so easily have been the resort of disputants.

Thus it was that Britain and France turned naturally to the United Nations for a settlement of the Suez problem. In this they were not deterred by the fact that the Kashmir question, for instance, remains an unsettled point between India and Pakistan. The successes have outdone the failures. The measure of the success may be seen in the fact that if there were not a United Nations organization now in existence, the world would immediately have to create one. The UN stands as a court of last resort, which no nation today, whatever its power, would dare openly to flout.

The complementary work of the UN, apart from the diplomatic tasks, has achieved a success of its own. The many sub-committees on refugees, on food and agriculture, on cultural growth, on international finance, on child welfare and many other global projects have been outstanding as co-operative ventures.

The member nations of the UN may look not only with pride on their accomplishment, but with feelings of a man who has built a raft to save himself from the sea, and who knows what will happen if that raft disintegrates.

In Needy Lands

VICTORIA IS HOST THIS WEEK to a woman whose name has become synonymous with aid to the underprivileged people of the world. She is Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, who, as executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, helps to channel aid from this prosperous country to other less fortunate lands.

Current projects of this organization include a foster-parent scheme whereby 3,600 war orphans in southern Europe have received food, clothing, shelter and education. There are two children's welfare projects in Vienna, scholarships and employment aids in war-torn Korea, jeep ambulances and medicine in Indian villages, medical centers in Indian cities, and other neighborly assistance. The Middle East is providing a new field for work among the nearly one million refugees.

All these tasks take money, and one of Dr. Hitschmanova's purposes in visiting all parts of Canada at the present time is to spur the drive to raise $100,000 before the end of the year. It is a cause which Victorians will be anxious to support.

Priceless Hemingway

A CERTAIN HONORARY GAME warden of Kenya, Mr. Ernest Hemingway, who writes a bit on the side, seems to have definite opinions on slush funds.

He was against their use in a campaign to make Hemingway the Lord Rector of Glasgow University—particularly if such slush funds might have landed him or his supporters in jail.

The honorary game warden referred to the candidacy of his "dear friend Averell Harriman" for the Democratic presidential nomination, and the charge that Harriman used

$2,000,000 in an unsuccessful attempt to win that honor.

It is Mr. Hemingway's view that his dear friend is eminently unsuited to be president of the United States. Without saying so, he implies that Mr. Harriman is a full two million dollars' worth unsuitable.

So said Mr. Hemingway, let's have no slush funds in the campaign to make the writer Lord Rector. His supporters, being Scots, agreed.

The honorary game warden of Kenya finished last in the campaign—but a glorious last, without slush funds. His political integrity shines.

Ready to Steal His Clothes

IN FOR A MINUTE, OUT FOR A NIGHT By B. A. TOBIN

Pardon Me, Do You Know Me?

ONE of the strangest manifestations of modern civilization is the cocktail party. It's a thing you go to to meet someone new but spend all your time talking to people you've known all your life. While it isn't very nourishing on intellectual food, it often provides fair sustenance in addition to the cocktails.

Tobin

People have been known to subsist for quite long periods merely on the food and drink they took aboard at daily cocktail parties. Ottawa, I believe, is noted as a happy hunting ground in this regard. But much less important centres, for shorter periods, can sustain an experienced and persevering cocktail hound in the style to which he wishes he could become accustomed.

One of the baffling things about a cocktail party is where everybody goes. The room seems to be crowded with familiar faces except for the ones around you. These are usually the faces of complete strangers, some of whom appear to know you, and some of whom you feel you ought to know but don't quite. The people you know best always seem to be at the other side of the room. You see them over there, but when you make your way to them through the smoke and din of bottle, they inevitably vanish. They are on the other side of the room—the side you just left.

Forgotten Man

Equally hard to pin down are hosts and hostesses. A Mr. Sidney Z. Chortle, of Montreal, once ran up an unbroken string of fourteen cocktail parties at which he encountered neither host nor hostess.

At least he thinks he didn't. All too often the chance acquaintance to whom you find yourself complaining about the hors d'oeuvres turns out to be the chap who provided them. An outstanding example of this sort of thing was the fellow who asked the man next to him who was "that sour-looking dame with the dyed hair," and received the answer, "That, sir, is my wife."

One of the silent pleasures of a cocktail party is looking over the unknown and obviously off-beat characters and wondering how they got in. Sometimes the seediest-looking fellow in the crowd, who beyond doubt crashed the party, turns out to be the host.

But this is not a reliable test. I have myself been mistaken for the host at more than one of these affairs, and was at the time no better than second or third seeder.

Most cocktail parties ostensibly have a purpose. Part of the fun of the thing is trying to find out what this may be, if the invitations have not already made this clear and so frightened you out of coming. Sometimes the idea is to meet a Celebrity. Sometimes it is to make it known that the hostess knows a Celebrity. If you are keen-eyed and alert at first, you can quickly spot the guest of honor, implant his image firmly on your mind, and thus be able to avoid him for the duration of the affair.

As a rule he or she is cornered at one end of the room by a group of people trying to see what the others are looking at. This makes it fairly easy to enjoy the party, down at your end of the room, without any interruptions.

Sometimes, of course, the purpose of the cocktail party turns out to be an announcement. The host or hostess, or both, wish to make something public without resort to the paid columns of the press, and hit on this novel way of doing it.

Statistics show that less than 24 per cent of cocktail party-goers ever hear such announcements in the hubbub, and of these, a bare 3.7 per cent understand what was said.

Free Publicity

This makes cocktail parties a poor advertising medium, but still fun. And usually, if the hostess knows one of the local social editors, she can get the information into the paper after all, without charge.

No cocktail party-goer worth his salt ever goes to such a function to stay. He merely "drops in," "looks in for a minute," "shows his face," or otherwise makes a fleeting appearance while hurrying from one important appointment to another.

This universal practice apparently should result in sparsely attended events. But for some reason it works out the other way.

The droppers-in and so on inevitably stay a moment longer than they intended, and most cocktail parties run on a good hour after the last stuffed olive or minced celery sandwich has disappeared, and the bartender has thoughtfully dropped the last half-bottle of beverage into his convenient overcoat pocket.

Who's on First?

I know of only one occasion on which a guest has left after a mere half-hour's sojourn.

A well-known Ottawa resident while visiting in Winnipeg was invited to a private cocktail party at a club. He arrived in good time, was welcomed cordially, accepted a drink and took his place along the side of the slowly filling room. He had finished one drink and was well into another before his perplexity at the number of strangers was solved. He had expected to recognize at least a few of the guests, but found he knew none of them.

He set the remains of his drink down, tiptoed quietly into the hall and up the broad, carpeted stairs of the club. On the next floor he was welcomed cordially, accepted a drink and took his place along the side of the slowly filling room. He had arrived.

The Foggy, Foggy DEW

Your editorial "Blunder in the North" makes one wonder who or what are the real rulers in Canada when a federal minister and other high officials of the Canadian Government are checked for security by the American Government before they are permitted to visit the region of the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line on Canadian territory.

A recent item from an accredited intelligence service reports "Sixteen Soviet 'fisheries' experts on tour in Canada, at the invitation of Canadian officials, recently were taken on a tour of our still secret DEW line stations."

It would be interesting to know just who checked the credentials of both guests and hosts of this party.

Our security system seems to be about as confused as anything in Alice in Wonderland. Perhaps "Blunderland" would aptly describe our national security.

Forecasters I Have Met

As a boy at the docks of Liverpool, England, I watched Charles Pigott, a self-styled agnostic, create great interest among his audience as he predicted all religions would be wiped out within 50 years. That was between 1918 and 1920.

In December, 1925, while crossing the Atlantic, I saw Jack Wilkinson of London, England, and New Zealand (he was well educated and a world traveler) come to his feet and in a most vicious manner pound his fist on his books as he told me all it would take would be another world war to wipe out Christianity.

Sometimes I would go to the Domain, a park in Sydney, Australia, to hear infidel speakers who had Christianity almost down and out. That was 1926.

In Winnipeg in 1929, Marshall J. Gauran, one of the world's rationalist

'Pessimism and Hopelessness'

When Mrs. Harry Smith speaks of "pessimism and hopelessness" in England today, I feel sure she refers to the so-called middle class which has endured heavy taxation since the war. The upper class, though taxed proportionately higher, still has a margin left over for comparative comfort.

When I left England for Victoria just twelve months ago, it was difficult for a middle wage earner with a family to afford the annual seaside vacation we took for granted in prewar times. And because of the high cost of living in relation to wages, many of us felt guilty if we spent more than a few shillings a week on amusement—guilty because the money was obviously needed for home and family.

Most middle-income family men were either buying homes with high mortgages, or paying exorbitant rents because houses for rent were so scarce. In many cases, it seemed that the unskilled worker had more spending money, since he was able to qualify for a low-rent "council house" subsidized by the state at the expense of the higher income groups.

The "hopelessness" of which Mrs. Smith spoke in her talk to the Women's leaders at the time, personally told me to forget about all this religious humbug as it was fast on its way out, and when I was a little older and if I traveled and met people, I would forget it. Twenty-five years going to sea (1930-55) seem to have made me enjoy it.

At Pershing Square, Los Angeles, in 1938, a man who claimed to be a retired scientist would draw large crowds to hear him declare that religion and the Bible would bow out within a few years.

Now we have a local intellectual, H. V. O'Reilly giving us first-hand information. But he plays it safe. He sets 50 years as the limit.

Rationalism and other isms may put a new suit on an old man. Christianity puts a new man in an old suit. I am not capable of defending Christianity. It defends itself.

Question of Taste

I usually enjoy the articles and stories in the Weekend Magazine section, but I found the article "How to be Happy with Money" in very poor taste.

FROM WASHINGTON By WALTER LIPPMANN

Key to the Campaign

THE U.S. political campaign has been showing that there are two distinct, though of course related, elections in progress. There are the congressional and local contests. This is the presidential contest. This is reflected, we may suppose, in the extraordinary contradictions between what the private polls are indicating and what the actual voters in Maine and Alaska have shown. The polls show great strength in the Democratic party. It is, it seems to me, too early to come to any conclusion as to what these contradictions portend.

Lippmann

It would be fair to say that until the past week or so the main emphasis of the campaigning has been on the contests at the congressional level.

Attractive Issues

Stevenson and Kefauver have been rallying the Democrats in the various regions of the country, and the issues they have been raising are those which in the different states are most likely to draw the Eisenhower Democrats of 1952 back into the fold.

Stevenson's speeches have been pointed primarily at the weaknesses of the Republican party as opposed to the Democratic party. Eisenhower has been involved only insofar as he can be identified with the Republican record.

A reason, I would not be surprised if it were the main reason, why Stevenson has not been arousing strong national interest is that up to this point his campaign has been very largely devoted to helping the Democrats in their local contests.

During this period the Republicans have been on the defensive, with Nixon working to activate the Republican politicians and Eisenhower working to hold on to the Eisenhower Democrats.

Under the Surface

The striking characteristic of this phase of the election, which looks as if it might now be ending, has been that the crucial issues of the presidential contest have been allowed to lie under, though just under, the surface of the campaign.

These issues are not farm parties, big business in government, or even the hydrogen bomb tests and foreign policy. The crucial issues arise from the fundamental fact that Eisenhower's leadership and control of the Republican party depend uniquely on his own personality, on his own active presence, and therefore on his health and his energies.

Gen. Eisenhower's great default, which is, I believe, the central issue of the presidential contest, is that he has not provided carefully and reliably for a successor.

Given his age, given his illnesses, it was his primary duty, if he chose to seek a second term, to provide for a successor. It was his duty to offer the country a successor who was indubitably a believer in his principles, a man of unimpeachable character and of proven ability.

It would be absurd to say that such men do not exist in the Republican party. Gen. Eisenhower's failure to bring one of them forward is the crucial issue in the contest between him and Stevenson.

In this contest the main point is not that Stevenson is younger, nor who is going to live longer. The main point is that Eisenhower does not have a party behind him and around him which can be counted upon to carry on along his lines if, for any reason, his energies diminish or fail.

There is here a risk to the public interest and to the national interest which cannot prudently be ignored. It cannot be discounted by saying that Stevenson too is mortal.

The essential point is that Stevenson has a party around him and behind him, and that if anything happened to him there would be no risk, not even a probability, that the party would go off course and in a very different direction.

ODE TO THE ISLES

I have travelled much, and I have seen notable scenery in many parts of the world, but I have not seen anything to approach the varied and subtle beauty of the Western Isles of Scotland in fine weather. The Alps are larger and grander than any of the mountains in the Hebrides. The colors of the Mediterranean and the East are brighter. The climate in most other places is certainly more amenable and settled. But, for soft luminous coloring combined with an indefinable hint of splendor, I think the Western Isles have the Alps, the Mediterranean and even the Himalayas beat. On a fine tranquil summer or autumn day, these apparently countless islands lie in a sea that is neither blue nor green nor gold, but is at times a mixture of all three turning at sunset to crimson and then to dark purple and black. The beaches that lie to the Western side, that is towards the vast Atlantic, are composed of sand that is sometimes silver, sometimes yellow, with here and there the strangest and most elusive hint of pale rose.

Not Building Cinemas

LONDON—Short takes... DOWN, DOWN, DOWN go the soccer gates. To date this season the crowds turning out are below the equivalent period last year—which was below the previous year. Could one of the reasons be that the season has now elongated itself to such an extent that this time it runs from August 18 to May 4 of next year? It's asking a bit too much of the fans to turn out every Saturday (plus mid-week games) for that long stretch and not get a bit bored with the sport.

ANOTHER LONDON LANDMARK is going and it is one that is not unfamiliar to Canadians because it is just along the road from Canada House. The Tivoli Cinema on the Strand has had its last showing and is now closed, ready for demolition. It was one of London's oldest cinemas.

Reyburn

I remember going there in the 20s when it was in its heyday as a first-run "luxury" house. But of recent years it has been a second run cinema, with the lateness that always accompanies such a decline.

Although it's hardly accurate to say that cinemas are closing all over the country, enough of them have closed their doors in the past 12 months to indicate that television is biting into the movie industry with a vengeance. It is very noticeable the amount of new building going on in London these days.

Some examples close at hand, a tremendous block of offices along the south side of Wigmore Street just behind Selfridges, a new wing for Selfridges itself, the rebuilding of the bombed John Lewis store on Oxford Street, another whopping great office building in the block that separates Selfridges from Wallis's on Oxford Street, a giant of a block of offices on the bombed site of Druce's store on Baker Street.

going on in a cluster of adjoining blocks and is duplicated wherever you go in London. But amidst all this building of new offices and shops, one never hears of anyone being foolish enough to undertake the building of a new cinema.

THIS LITTLE TEST of your wits is going the rounds right now: Can you reform the letters in TEARABLY to produce a common English word? It's tricky enough to take you over an hour—or it might come to you on sight. If you want to know the answer you'll find the word used in the last item in this column, which should add to your frustration!

IT IS PERHAPS A BETRAYAL of their true feelings about U.S. tourists that folks here are telling this story about two typical see-Europe-in-a-hurry visitors. Standing outside Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, said one to the other: "Mamie, we're a bit behind on our schedule, so you do the inside and I'll do the outside."

YOUR HEALTH

A Diet for Reducing

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, and Executive Professor, of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

It is said that today so many people can make good money—and sometimes big money—by telling fat women that they can reduce without much dieting, or that they can have fun reducing miraculously for 10 days or three weeks. No woman could ever pay me to give her a freak reducing diet that she is to use for days or weeks. That would be like my giving a 10-day cure for chain-smoking. What good would there be in "curing" the fellow for 10 days, if he was to go right back to smoking? what good would there be in a 10-day cure for chronic alcoholism? I could rapidly reduce a woman's weight by putting her on nothing but a quart of milk a day but she could not stand living on this diet for the rest of her days. I must give her a diet that will not be too boring.

Dr. Alvarez

No; the public will always be full of quick recipes for reducing. Why? Because fat women so strongly desire to be fooled. They want to get the fat off in a few days and get it off easily; they don't want to keep dieting for a lifetime; and they have no use for the man who tells them honestly that that is what they will have to do. They know in their hearts that they will always tend to get stout, and that the day they eat as much as they would like to eat will gain several pounds. They know this, but still every time some one tells them of a 10-day Hollywood diet, or Mayo diet or Rockefeller diet they are all for it. Actually, I do not know about the Rockefeller diet, but I am sure the dietitians at the Mayo Clinic never advocated any freakish or magical reduction diet.

FREAK DIETS STUPID

Because those of us who tend to get stout must remain on a reducing diet for the rest of our days, it is silly and stupid to start on some freak diet which no one could tolerate for more than a few days or weeks, or which could produce a dangerous malnutrition. There is only one scientific way of reducing and that is to cut down on the number of calories taken every day. If we eat more than we need, we are likely to store it as fat.

It is wise to reduce by eating foods of low calorie value so that the stomach will not get too empty, and the person will not get too hungry. Indeed, the person who wants to reduce must say good-bye to large amounts of butter, cream, sugar, bread, and all pastries and sweets that contain much butter and cream and sugar.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Many fat women say to me, "I don't eat as much as my thin husband does." That may be—at table; but oh, how you keep nibbling all day, and how you can raid the refrigerator at bed-time; and every so often you eat up a two-pound box of chocolates. It is impossible to get fat without eating too much. Let us never forget that.

The person who wants to reduce must leave off the fat parts of meat; she cannot eat her fill of any starchy food; and she should keep her stomach filled with salads, made of lettuce or tomatoes, or cabbage. She should eat plenty of vegetables with a low calorie value, and these vegetables must be prepared without butter. Besides these stomach-fillers, the person must take each day enough meat, fish or chicken to maintain strength. It is well to eat an egg and take a glass of milk every day. These foods supply vitamins and chemicals that the body needs.

The woman who would reduce should have some idea of the calorie value of foods; also, every morning she should get on the scales. If she finds that she has gained a pound or two, there can be only one conclusion and this is that she has been eating more than she needed for the daily requirements of her body.

CALORIE COUNTERS

Anyone who doesn't know what the calorie values are should buy, for a few cents, a little book of calorie counters. In order to reduce, a stout woman will have to keep the calorie count down around 1,000 units a day. When she sees that a portion of lettuce contains perhaps 10 calories, while a big sundae contains 400 calories, she will know what she must do. She will know that there is no use trying to cheat. Perhaps she will see that there can be no royal and easy road to reducing, there can be no patent method, and it is silly to reduce for only a few weeks. A large number of persons who reduce, promptly go back to where they were before.

How about drugs? I do not like them and, generally, I would never use them. Thyroid substance can injure the heart, and the other drugs, while they lessen the appetite, greatly stimulate the nervous system. The trouble with using drugs for reduction is that the woman is always hoping that the drug will enable her to cheat a bit, and that is bad.

I wish all people could see as clearly as I do, after a lifetime's study of the problem, that there can be no miraculous way of reducing. Nutrition is just a matter of chemistry, and one cannot fill oneself with the building blocks of the body and then expect them to do nothing. This would be like filling an old wood stove with wood and then expecting it not to get hot!

REPUBLICAN SWEEP SEEN UNLIKELY THIS TIME

Democratic Hold on South Like Liberals in Quebec

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK (CP)—The factor that turned President Eisenhower's victory over Adlai Stevenson into a rout in 1952 was his ability to make inroads in the "solid south"—the Democratic party's traditional stronghold.

Like Quebec, which sends a phalanx of Liberals to the House of Commons in every federal election, the 15 southern and border states are chronically Democratic to the point where the party's candidates are unchallenged in some areas, even in the tightest congressional battles.

Just as in Quebec, the South's leanings are largely emotional in origin, dating from disputes almost forgotten by the rest of the country. In Quebec Sir Robert Borden and the Conservatives were never forgiven for resorting to conscription in the First World War. In the South, the Civil War created lasting antipathy for Abraham Lincoln and his Republican heirs.

In 1930 the late R. B. Bennett was able to chip away 24 of 65 Quebec seats from the Liberals and formed the last Conservative government. His successors have never won more than five.

In 1952 Eisenhower captured 78 of the South's 169 electoral votes in rolling up his 442-to-89 sweep. Few of his supporters expect him to do as well again. Four years ago the South Democrats were busy feuding with the Liberal Democrats of the North. Although deep-seated differences with Stevenson remain on racial segregation and other issues, they value the patronage that accrues from Democratic occupancy of the White House too highly to make the same mistake again.

Heathers Just Right For Brick Planters

In modern home designing, outdoor porch planters or plant boxes have taken the place of window boxes.

Their treatment is a little different especially in plant selection.

Hilda

Mrs. E. W., in the new Tillicum-Carey home area, has a brick planter five feet long built as an edging to the brick porch at the entrance door.

Any plants in this will need to be of fairly low stature, since the exposure is to south-west whence gales may come during winter and spring.

For color and interest during winter, heathers are suggested, about seven plants being sufficient. Choose from such as Erica carnea, Springwood White and E. c. Springwood Pink, E. darleysensis and its varieties. All are reliable winter flowerers.

After spacing the heathers, bulbs of early single and early double tulips may fill in the gaps. Plant in threes and fives of one color in one space. Prince of Austria, orange scarlet and sweet scented is fine for an early single. Early doubles include El Toreador, salmon with orange; Madame Testout, rose pink; Marechal Niel, amber with orange.

Alternate spaces may be planted to late varieties of daffodils (narcissi). Such names come to mind as Thalia, a lovely pure white with two and three flowers to a stem; Geranium, a cluster type often carrying seven blossoms on a stem and heavily scented.

COARSE SAND

The soil mixture for these outdoor brick planters should be made up of well-rotted compost or good garden loam with some coarse sand added, not builders' sand, but coarse, about half the size of a split pea.

An inch or two of coarse gravel in the bottom of the planter will provide drainage. Over this place the soil mixture to within a couple of inches of the rim of the planter.

Bonemeal may be worked into the top three inches of soil for use as food by bulbs in spring. It will do no harm to the heathers since these winter blooming kinds do not demand acidity.

Public in Dark On Radar Warning Says Simonds

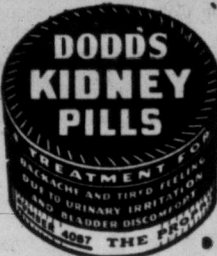

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Lieut. Gen. Guy Simonds says millions of dollars have been spent on an expensive warning alarm system for Canada but "no one knows what to do when the bell rings."

He said Tuesday if an alarm was sounded on one of the country's three radar warning systems "99 per cent of the public would not know in which direction to move."

over the police car when the officers arrested him. The arrest came as milling university students pelted Quebec's legislature building with eggs, tomatoes and oranges and demanded a "positive and concrete attitude of any type" by the provincial government on the question of financial aid to universities.

Some 1,000 students, mostly from Laval University, staged day-long demonstrations in front of the legislature and on Quebec streets. They had gone there to back requests by a 12-student group for an interview with Premier Duplessis.

JOHNNY KNEW HIS BIBLE SO HE KEPT PINEAPPLE

LEEDS, Eng. (CP)—Children attending a harvest festival in a Yorkshire village were asked to bring gifts to the vicar and learn an appropriate line from the Bible.

One boy, however, refused to part with his gift. "Give me the offering please, Johnny," said the vicar.

Johnny didn't move.

"Tell me your text then," Johnny quoted St. Paul's injunction to the Thessalonians—"Hold hard that which is good"—and clutching his pineapple even tighter retreated down the aisle to his pew.

Gomulka-Heel to Hero- In 12 Years of Communism

Editor's note: This profile of Wladyslaw Gomulka was written by an Associated Press reporter born in Poland and there during Gomulka's first rise to power. The writer now is with the Paris bureau of The Associated Press.

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
PARIS (AP) — Twelve years ago, Wladyslaw Gomulka was one of Poland's most hated Communist leaders.

Today the short, bald man with penetrating eyes has returned in triumph to lead his country into a new domestic-bred communism.

This time, however, the Polish masses see him as the man who said "no" to the Kremlin—not as the old-guard Communist who in the fateful summer of 1944 symbolized to them Soviet domination.

That was the year the Soviet-sponsored national liberation committee took over war-ravaged Poland.

Seen as Agent

Gomulka, son of a Warsaw worker and a veteran of pre-war strikes, demonstrations and jails, was vice-premier.

To the masses of Poles, historically hating Russia, members of the new government were only Soviet agents.

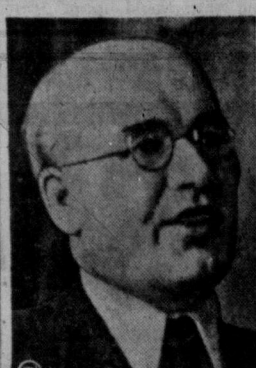

Few people then thought that the taciturn man who vowed to stem "the reaction" with force if necessary was a fiercely nationalistic and patriotic Pole.

He was one of those self-educated workers who literally learned to read on Marx, Engels and Lenin. A child of Warsaw slums, he believed that communism was the key to his country's future.

Turn to Russia

Men of Gomulka's calibre believed Russia was the only country which could support their cause. To Russia they turned, although they knew that Poland's national interest would clash in the future with Soviet interests.

Most of those men were purged by Stalin in the late 1930s. Gomulka escaped by being in Poland at the time.

He fled Poland after the Nazi invasion in 1939. At first he went to the Soviet-occupied part, then to Russia.

But the political winds had changed by then. The Russians needed Poles to organize a new government. Gomulka, whose anti-state activities in pre-war Poland were well known to the Russians, was one of them.

Trusted by Few

Thus, in 1944, he returned to rule a new, Sovietized Poland.

But few in Poland then had heard of him. Some doubted that he was a Pole. All the Poles knew that he was there to impose a system they hated and feared.

To most, Gomulka seemed one of the men responsible for Poland's post-war plight.

They blamed him for poverty.

political persecution, exploitation by Russia.

Then, in 1949, came his downfall. He was accused and tried on "Titoist deviation" charges.

At his trial Gomulka admitted that on some of the issues the party was right. But surprisingly he challenged some of the charges. He spoke long and bitterly, always a master of dialectics. Stunned Poles read news dispatches of the trial and didn't believe their eyes.

Jailed 4 Years

Gomulka was convicted and sentenced. Four years later he emerged, a tired, broken man—or so it seemed.

Then, nearly overnight, he was back in power — first secretary of the Polish Communist party.

This time, however, to millions of Poles he was the man who said "no" to Russia's Nikita Khrushchev. He was the man who promised them freedom, national sovereignty and betterment of their lot.

Although a Marxist to the core, he will undoubtedly not hesitate to compromise on some issues—where a compromise would mean popular support. So far, no opposition to his plan has been noted.

Victoria Water Board to Buy Saseenos System

The privately-owned water supply system servicing 130 residents in the Saseenos area near Sooke, Saseenos Water, Light and Power Company, will be taken over by Greater Victoria Water Board Jan. 1.

The water board on Tuesday approved the purchase for $13,000.

Company shareholders have still to give final approval to the deal. The offer was made by directors of the company.

The deal includes all company assets, including about 130 acres of land adjacent to Sooke Harbor.

According to water board officials, the transfer will mean a reduction in rates to the Saseenos customers of about 50 per cent. They are now paying about $5.50 every two months.

The company now buys its water wholesale from the water board.

By the terms of the proposed transfer, the water board will undertake no capital improvements to the line until 50 per cent of the purchase price has been realized in income, probably two years.

In other water board business, tenders for supply of a bulldozer and a logging arch were approved.

Contract for supply was won by Vancouver Caterpillar dealers for a total of $35,000, plus tax.

The logging equipment is to be used for continued logging of a right-of-way and building of a fire access road started last year through the Sooke Lake watershed.

Five Seek Three Council Seats In Saanich; Only One Newcomer

Five candidates today announced they will seek election to Saanich municipal council in December.

Candidates include three councillors whose term of office expires this year, a former councillor and a newcomer in municipal politics.

There are three vacant seats this year and one opening on the Saanich police commission now held by George Askey who is expected to seek re-election.

Councillors who will run again are George Austin, Eugene Diespecker and Almslee Worthington. Mr. Austin said he may reconsider his decision at some later date, but at present feels he should seek re-election.

Others considered as possible contenders are Ted Cummins, a former councillor who contested the reevehip against former reeve Joseph Casey three years ago; and Harold

Born in Edmonton, educated in Victoria and a graduate of the University of British Columbia, Mr. Murphy is the first teacher in the Greater Victoria area to take advantage of an amendment to the Municipal Election Act passed by the legislature last year permitting teachers to seek municipal office.

Others considered as possible contenders are Ted Cummins, a former councillor who contested the reevehip against former reeve Joseph Casey three years ago; and Harold

Employment Official Minimizes Fear of Big Lay-Off in Woods

VANCOUVER (CP)—There are no signs "at the moment" which point to a general rise in unemployment here this winter, an Unemployment Insurance Commission official said Tuesday.

William McKinstry, the commission's Pacific director, said unemployment figures to date are about the same as those at this time last year.

He expressed surprise at International Woodworkers' Union reports there will be widespread unemployment in the timber industry this winter and that other industries will be affected. IWA said 800 men already had been laid off.

"We were puzzled by that story," Mr. McKinstry said. "But I don't see any reason to become alarmed."

He said the 800 men are a small percentage of some 14,000 timber industry workers and that if "we have a good winter, the situation should be about the same as last year."

BIRDS DIDN'T BUTT FAG

BROCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—The fire which caused $10,000 damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook has been blamed on pesting birds. Fire Chief George A. Marks said the fire started among nests in the eaves "most probably" after a bird returned with a discarded but still burning cigarette butt.

More Overseas Markets Needed By Canada Says U.S. Businessman

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—With major new supplies of iron ore, petroleum and gas now available, Canada will have a new urge of industrial expansion, Marshall E. Young of St. Louis, Mo., predicted in an address Tuesday night to the Canadian Exporters' Association.

Mr. Young, who is vice-president of Monsanto Chemical Co., said this would mean "new competition among yourselves" for mass markets at home and abroad, and need for bigger overseas market.

Now was the time to go after those markets, and to get the area-knowledge and product-prestige which would be needed if Canada were to manufacture abroad—as would probably happen as she developed into a creditor country.

CONSUMERS' GROUP TO FIGHT TRADING STAMP SYSTEM

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers will go all out to fight the trading-stamp system, the CAC's new president said Tuesday.

Isabel Atkinson of Saskatoon said the fight is "likely to develop into a long, drawn-out struggle" but that it is a part of the CAC's opposition to practices which add to the cost without adding to the value of consumer goods.

Delivery Rate:
23 Miles Per Year

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—It took the post office seven years to deliver a parcel of 43 maps nearly 160 miles to a school teacher, but it finally arrived here Monday.

"Though a few years late for the class for which they were intended, the maps will be put to good use," said teacher Miss E. Owens, who ordered the maps in Toronto in 1949.

GOLDEN FEATHERS ELECTION GIMMICK

Washington State to 'Tickle' Everyone Who Goes to Polls

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—The staff of Secretary of State Earl Coo's office started the most ticklish operation it has handled in years.

The job involves the packaging and distribution of 1,800,000 golden feathers.

It is part of a "get out the vote" drive backed by Republicans, Democrats, labor and industrial groups to the tune of $2,375.

Kenneth Gilbert, in charge of the operation, said every person who votes Nov. 6 will receive a golden feather.

He said a similar gimmick was used in 1952 and proved to be an effective means of stimulating people to vote and to vote early.

FURS

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

Before the Victoria Cougars trained away to the barren waste-lands east of Crow's Nest Pass, coach Colin Kilburn put it on the line.

He said, "This is where we separate the men from the boys."

Colin knew that one week on the prairies, playing practically every night, could prove more than a month of home games.

And, true enough, he learned something from that road trip, a trip that produced only one tie in five games, one point out of a possible 10.

Kilburn said of the trip, "The guys showed me that there are no boys on the club; only men."

"In the won-lost column, it wasn't a good trip. But I count it as a success because I found out the guys, even the rookies, have got the fight I want and the potential."

"They are sort of like a present that's wrapped up and marked Don't Open Till Christmas; you can't see what's inside but you know it's something pretty good."

Edmonton Game One of Greatest

"That's how I feel about the club. We played our two best games of the season and lost both of them. That game in Edmonton, where we lost 2-1, was one of the greatest hockey games I ever played in."

Kilburn pointed out the fact that, in spite of the lack of wins on the prairies, Monday night's victory over Calgary put the Cougars only one point out of second place.

"New Westminster had a far worse time than us on their swing, we're only one point behind them and they play Calgary Wednesday night. I wouldn't be surprised to see Calgary beat them. That would leave it up to us against Edmonton Friday night, and Edmonton looks like the class of the prairie division."

There was a shortcoming on the trip.

"Bruce Carmichael and George Ranieri didn't produce but it wasn't their fault. They worked hard but they couldn't get untracked."

Marcel Most Colorful in Loop

There was an annoyance on the trip.

"In Calgary, I didn't like the way Art Michalak put Gordy Haworth out of the game. When Michalak comes in to check you, he always bends his knees. Then he can't help but hit you with those knees. That's how he crooked Gordy."

And there was a disappointment. Not on the trip, but on the homecoming.

"I wonder where the people were Monday night?"

"We have an interesting hockey club and we're trying to play interesting hockey."

"We've got by far the most colorful player in the league in Marcel Pelletier. We've got one of the fastest skaters in the league in Lionel Henrich. We've got Doug Anderson, one of the best work-horses in the league and Doug Macauley can carry the puck with anyone outside of the NHL."

"I think we have a better club than a lot of people credit us with."

CENTRAL LEADS ENTRIES

Keen Competition Expected at Gala

Some of the closest competition in the history of the annual event is expected at the Crystal Garden Thursday night when the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club stages the Greater Victoria junior high schools' swimming gala.

Central Junior High School, with 44 entries, will have the largest squad in the gala, which has attracted a record total of 224 entries.

Lansdowne is next in line with 40 young splashers ready to go and Oak Bay, defending the Dickinson and Dunn Trophy, will make its bid to retain the aggregate crown with a 34-swimmer squad.

S. J. Willis, hoping to retain the two relay trophies, will be represented by 28 swimmers. S. J. Willis last year won the Canadian Legion Trophy for the boys' relay championship for the second successive time and won the Penny Cup in the girls' relay event.

Other schools entered are Colquhitt, with 21 contestants; Esquimalt, 17; Belmont, 14; St. Ann's Academy, 11; Lampson, 8, and Royal Oak, 7.

Tickets for the event, which gets under way at 7.30, have all been distributed among the competing schools and none will be available at the Crystal Garden box office.

Arsenal Pilot Dies

LONDON (Reuters) — Tom Whittaker, 59, secretary-manager of the Arsenal Football Club and one of the greatest names in British soccer, died in hospital today. He had been ill for several months.

Whittaker spent his lifetime in professional football, joining Arsenal as centre forward in 1919, later becoming trainer and manager in 1947.

As manager he helped maintain Arsenal's reputation as one of the top teams in England.

McNeil Back in Nets As Plante Turns Ill

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gerry McNeil, once the regular goaltender for Montreal Canadiens, is stepping back into his old National Hockey League job.

Canadiens called up McNeil from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League Tuesday, a few hours after Jacques Plante was taken to hospital for diagnosis of a fever.

McNeil, who hasn't been under NHL fire in two years, will be in the nets tonight when Habs meet the second-place Rangers in New York. It's the only game scheduled.

The 30-year-old McNeil decided to call it quits in the big time during the 1953-54 playoffs after a case of nervous tension. Plante suffered an acute bronchial attack after a practice session Tuesday. He spent the night in hospital but may be released today.

New York coach Phil Watson said Tuesday he wants his players to cut Montreal centre Jean Beliveau down to size.

Rangers, particularly Watson, are sore about what they call his "unsportsmanlike" conduct before Montreal fans Saturday.

"Gerry Foley of New York and Bert Olmstead of Montreal were fighting a good fair fight in the second period," Watson said. "All of a sudden that big, brave Beliveau picks on Red Sullivan, one of our smallest men."

Beliveau stands six feet three inches and weighs 205 pounds; Sullivan is five-feet-eleven and 160 pounds.

"When Sullivan was down and Beliveau was on top of him, the big Frenchman starts slugging him," Watson continued. "The crowd hollers for blood and the more they holler, the more Beliveau slugs."

"It was a pretty dirty trick on Beliveau's part. I was surprised and disappointed..."

MERALOMAS WILL TEST 'TWO-YEAR PLAN'

Training Makes Champions at Royal Roads

By BILL RAYNER

The original idea of the athletic program at Royal Roads Canadian Services College was to help prepare youths for a man's life in the armed forces.

But along the way the compulsory sports participation by the cadets has resulted in at least one outstanding contribution to civilian sport in Victoria. Losers of only one game in two years, Royal Roads junior Canadian football team is on the verge of a B.C. championship.

Saturday at Macdonald Park at 2 p.m. the cadets will take on Vancouver Meralomas in a sudden-death game for the provincial junior title.

This is the gratifying end result of coach Herb Addison's two-year Canadian football plan, and the complete physical and recreational training setup at the college. Every cadet, unless he is on the sick list, must compete in a daily and weekly round of sport and athletic activities. While daily class exercises in physical training are held, inter-flight activities in various sports are held throughout the week for every cadet.

Under the divisional system, there are eight flights at the college, and each flight takes its turn at such endeavors as cross-country running, boat-work, soccer, boxing, rifle and trap shooting, basketball, ice hockey and swimming.

The sports are taken in season. Right now a visitor to Royal Roads would see hordes of young men gambling across the downs out Sooke way on the college's top-flight cross-country course.

Thursday, the annual inter-flight cross-country race will be held, and every cadet able to trot will participate. This also includes glamorous football heroes, who are not excused from taking part in the regular sport program.

Other major events staged include the inter-flight regatta, the obstacle course and the boxing finals. Also coming up is the Hibbard Trophy Canadian football game between Royal Roads and HMCS Venture on Nov. 11, while the College's representative soccer team travels to Denver to take on the USAF Academy Nov. 10 in an exhibition game.

At the moment, the soccer team is engaged in a home-and-home league schedule with Victoria College, HMCS Venture and Pacific Naval Laboratories.

The inter-flight sports program is aimed at maximum participation by all cadets and a keen flight spirit is evident, according to Lieut. Addison.

The College's sports activities are culminated every year in the Canadian Tri-Services tournament, which will be held in Kingston next February.

As for the football team, it is sorted out early in the season and then practices by itself, but the players still are required for the inter-flight program in other sports.

The 'squad is a good cross-section of the College, which draws its youngsters between the ages of 16 and 20 from all over the country. While the majority of the 34-man team is from Ontario high schools, others come from Nova Scotia, Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and here in B.C.

Closest to home is halfback Jeff White, who is from Alberni and is in his first year with the team. White scored a touchdown Sunday in the cadets' 47-0 romp over Oak Bay.

Those to watch offensively for the cadets Saturday include Cal Connor, a fine quarterback from Burlington, Ont., who played in the ORFU last year; explosive two-way back Scotty Simpson of Calgary, who has scored eight touchdowns in four games; and fullback and place-kicker Ian Roussac of Montreal, who is the leading scorer with 50 points.

Also standouts on the squad are Lou Kuzych, a fine junior punter from St. Catharines and defensive half and linebacker Bill Hewson of Ottawa. Backing up Connor in the quarterback slot is Lee Clark, a promising signal-caller from Fenelon Falls, Ont.

Up on the line, five first string linemen average out at 202 pounds apiece, while the second string wall scales at 181 pounds.

Coach Addison has the cadets playing a wide-open, razzle-dazzle brand of football this season, and their chances look good Saturday against Meralomas' powerful passing attack.

The HMCS Naden band will be in attendance Saturday, as will cheerleaders from both Venture and Royal Roads.

Tars Gain Grid Final; Whip Vamps

Navy 13, Vampires 0

With the grudging co-operation of Mayo Vampires, Navy and Oak Bay Drakes will meet Friday night at Athletic Park in the first game of the two-game, total-point Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football Union final. Second game will be the following Friday.

League officials set the dates Tuesday night following the 13-0 win by Navy over Vampires at Athletic Park in the last scheduled game of the season. Vamps, who had to win to stay in play-off contention, have waived their last two remaining league games.

Vampires gave it a nominal try in the dampness Tuesday night, but floundered against Navy's armor-plated defence.

Apart from a converted major early in the second quarter and an insurance TD with less than two minutes remaining in the game, the sailors puffed around in midfield and seemed content to slog away at basic ground plays.

Starting from their own 38 late in the first quarter, the sailors drove down to the Vampire nine in five plays as the gun ended the period. Gerry Forter on two carries then went over as the second quarter started and Doug Brown converted.

Then, sparked by the running of quarterback Chuck Thomas and Porter's 21-yard crawl through centre, Navy led it away with a touchdown at 13:15 of the fourth. Bill Schick went over from the six.

CHANCES WASTED

Vampires shared Navy's fondness for the midfield area, except in the third quarter, when they managed to take two close-in, futile cracks at the goal-line.

First, they marched from their own 54 down to the Navy 18, only to lose the ball on downs. On the next play, however, Navy quarterback Bud Brown fumbled, and Vamps took over again.

This time they carried down to the Navy three, where three tries were ground into the turf by the stout Navy line.

Vamps tried again midway through the fourth, travelling from their own 26 down to the Navy 31. They were aided by a weird interference call on a forward pass and a fumble out of touch by a sailor returning a kick, but again lost the initiative on a fumble.

In the figuring department, Navy outshone Vamps in almost every department except yards passing and yards penalized. Only pass completed in 11 tried by Vamp quarter Wayne Henderson was the one awarded to him in the third period on an interference call.

It was good for 22 yards, while Navy hit once in six attempts for six yards.

Navy coach Frank Hindle was concerned with his offence after the game, with Bob Gooderham expected to be missing from the backfield with an injured shoulder.

Lion Officials Weather Storm

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The three top officials of the British Columbia Lions began a new lease on life today in Vancouver after winning unanimous endorsement Tuesday night from the board of directors of the Western Football Conference club.

President Don Mackenzie, general manager Phil Webb and head coach Clem Crowe were all confirmed in their posts at a regular monthly meeting of the board. Expected fireworks failed to develop at the session, and its results were in sharp contrast to the stories of inner friction which had boiled up around the Lions in recent days.

All three officials were expected to come under heavy fire for failing to land the fourth-place Lions in the conference playoffs this year, their third in the league.

"COMPLETE CONFIDENCE"

A spokesman said the board "unanimously expressed complete confidence in Crowe," successor to Annis Stukus, who still has a year to go on the two-year contract he signed last winter.

The directors "also asked" that their appreciation be expressed to Webb "for his capable and excellent management" and announced their confidence in Mackenzie.

Crowe was given a free hand in picking his assistants for next year.

Two Canadians are in the list. Gordon Wallace of Banff, Ont., Canadian and British Empire champion, is eighth among the light heavyweights. Dick (Kid) Howard of Halifax, Canadian champion, is ninth in the lightweight class.

WORKING AGREEMENT

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Galbreath, president of Pittsburgh Pirates, announced Tuesday night that Pirates have entered into a working agreement with Columbus Jets of the International Baseball League.

THE HAGEN STORY

I Was Cocky In $10 Shoes

One of the most colorful figures in the world of golf was Walter Hagen. Now, with the aid of Margaret Beaton Beck he has written his amazing life story. Because of world-wide popularity and the fact that he played in the city, the Times takes pleasure in presenting the Hagen biography.

CHAPTER IV

My bosses at the Country Club of Rochester thought I was out beyond my depth when I asked for a few days off to play in the United States Open at Brookline in September of 1913. But they gave me permission to go.

I guess I was pretty cocky expecting to get anywhere in competition with the "big boys" of golf. And there were plenty of them, both foreign and American—for the British veterans, Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, chose that particular year to make their invasion. I figured if I were ever going to make a name for myself I'd better be getting started. After all, I was 20 years old.

Actually when I sent in my entry that summer I believe I was more concerned about the clothes I planned to wear than I was about the kind of game I'd have to play. The outfit had cost me plenty of money. $10 for the shoes alone! But I had managed to copy Tom Anderson's get-up as closely as it could be done.

My pure silk, striped shirt

Standing Wager of $5,000

They had a standing wager, in our daily foursome, of $5,000 on the match. And on each hole I played the best ball of the three of them for a $500 Nassau on the side. On top of that, the one who took the licking paid me $200 for a lesson the following morning or just prior to our afternoon rounds. But all this meant I was changing white flannels at least twice a day to maintain the immaculate appearance I liked. It cost me $6 a pair to get them cleaned.

One day I happened to drop into a store along the Boardwalk where white flannels were selling for $5 a pair and I picked up a few pair on the spot and ordered a load more of them. From then on I used the soiled ones to tip and to get special favors from the bellhops at the Royal Poinciana in Palm Beach where I was living. I gave any boy an extra pair if he got me the name and pertinent information on any good-looking number, either widowed, divorced, or single, who'd checked into the hotel. I used this data very conveniently at five o'clock in the Coconut Grove Cocktail Lounge. I was all set up; and the best of the deal—I saved two dollars a day on cleaning bills, plus several hundred dollars on tips for the season.

However, I'd scratched hard to buy that first pair of white flannels and I rode the day coach to Boston in September of 1913. I checked in at the Copley Plaza, for I was determined to live "first class" in keeping with the outfit I planned to wear on the golf course. The manager gave me directions for reaching the Country Club (as the golf club in Brookline was known) and I lost no time in getting out there.

Francis Ouimet won and made golfing history that day and became a national sports hero. He put golf on the front pages of the newspapers... and in the roar of the crowds for the great golf he played in the Open that year all sidelights were forgotten. But I was in that championship tournament, too, and while I failed I was in there right up to the 14th hole of the final round.

I heard a little about Francis Ouimet in the locker room. The pros were not permitted in the clubhouse proper. But Ouimet, who had won amateur tournaments around the state, was admitted and welcomed to the clubhouse. He was a popular young fellow of 19 and had a big following. However, since he was so young and an ex-caddie like me few figured he could beat the top pros in either the American or the foreign group.

Len Lunde Scores Winner

Edmonton 4, Vancouver 3

By The Canadian Press

Edmonton Flyers and Brandon Regals share first place in the Prairie division of the Western Hockey League today, thanks to the last-place Vancouver Canucks of the Coast division. Canucks are one point behind Victoria.

Flyers, who downed the Canucks 4-3 on two third-period goals in Vancouver Tuesday night, could take over sole possession of the top rung in the Prairie section tonight. They play the Americans in Seattle while Brandon is idle.

In the only other game scheduled, Calgary Stampedeers make their first appearance in New Westminster.

Former Edmonton junior Len Lunde scored the winner for the Flyers Tuesday night on a pass from Frank Roggeveen at 13:59 of the third period.

The teams were tied 2-2 at the end of the second period after a scoreless first.

LESWICK NOTCHES ONE

Besides Lunde, Edmonton scorers were NHL veteran Tony Leswick, Edmonton regular Don Poile and Murray Costello. The Vancouver goals were scored by Phil Maloney and George Ford in the second period and defenceman Jim Bedard in the third.

After Bedard scored, Canucks pulled goalie Ray Mikulan and put six forwards in action, without success. Dennis Riggan was a stand-out in the Edmonton net as the Flyers preserved their slim margin.

Our Susie Draws Top Ranking; Plans to Resume Tourney Trail

Susie Butt, Victoria's brightest prospect in many tennis years, has been named first in the B.C. Lawn Tennis Association 1956 junior women's singles rankings and is already preparing for further conquests next year.

Susie, who climaxed her final season as a junior by capturing the Western Canada singles crown, plans to hit the tournament trail again when she invades the senior ranks next summer.

Fond of all sports, she will concentrate only on her tennis strokes through the winter. Whenever she can get a break in Victoria's weather, Susie is out at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club to polish up her already sound game, hoping to be ready for bigger things when the next net season rolls around.

Miss Butt played in several major Pacific Northwest tournaments during the past summer and also competed in Eastern Canada and at Philadelphia. Through many of the tourneys she waged a duel with Vancouver's Ann Barclay, ranked first in provincial senior women's singles for 1956, and scored several victories over her rival.

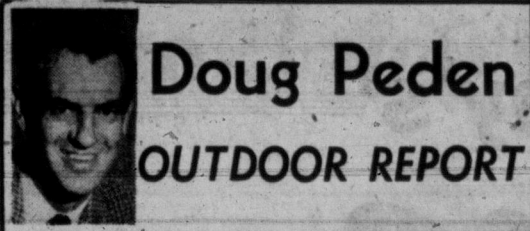

Susie earned her top ranking with wins in the junior singles in the PNW sectionals at Yakima, the Inland Empire tourney at Spokane and the Western Canada at Vancouver. Also counting toward the ranking were doubles victories while teamed with Miss Barclay at Vancouver, Yakima, Spokane, Tacoma and Quebec.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

People are funny, but those who go hunting with rifles are often among the strangest creatures roaming this old world of ours.

Discounting the obvious (to someone who doesn't hunt) lunacy of going without sleep and enduring various forms of physical discomfort for the chance of bringing back an amount of meat that could usually be obtained at a lesser cost from the nearest supermarket, many of us have another odd quirk.

Too often we hear of a hunter who, after spending considerable time and money on a big-game trip, misses his big chance, then discovers later that his rifle won't shoot where it is aimed.

It is indeed strange that so many of us will make elaborate preparations for a hunting season, yet risk our chances of success by not taking 15 minutes to sight in our rifles.

The fellow who travels the game trails with a rifle he has never fired, or one he hasn't tested since the previous season, deserves to be on the telling end of his usual hard-luck stories. But not deserving what is often the result of an untested rifle are the animals he hunts. His is only the brief pain of disappointment. Theirs may be the suffering of a lingering death.

It has been estimated that for every five big game animals brought back by hunters, one is wounded and escapes, often to die in the bush. Some of the woundings are an unavoidable part of hunting. Most are the result of carelessness.

The estimate seems rather high, but there is no doubt that if all hunters would take time to learn how their rifles shoot before starting out, more meat would find its way to our dinner tables and less would rot in the bush.

Every Man Shoots Differently

The best part of our deer season is just starting. If you haven't yet zeroed your rifle, a few minutes spent on this chore may mean the difference between success and failure on your next outing.

Find out what your rifle will do in your hands. It may have been sighted in at the factory or it might produce game for a friend, but what will it do for you? Every man sees and shoots differently.

Unfortunately, there is no suitable target range readily available to the public near Victoria. Most hunters will have to find a safe spot in the bush to sight in a rifle.

Take along some big targets, a box of shells and whatever is needed to adjust your sights. A small copper or brass bar and a light hammer will do the trick with most open sights. Aperture and telescope sights usually can be adjusted manually. If there are any doubts read the little booklet that comes with most new rifles or consult a gunsmith.

It often saves time and ammunition to start sighting in at a distance of 20 to 30 yards. The bullet will be travelling upward at the distance but if you are dead on at 25 yards, you'll be on the target paper at 100 and can easily make final adjustments.

The distance at which to zero a rifle is a matter of choice and varies with calibre and bullet weights. Personally, I prefer to sight rifles of the .32 Smith and .303 class at 100 yards and those in the .3006 and .270 bracket at 200 yards.

A .32 Smith zeroed at 100 yards will shoot about an inch high at 50, and eight inches low at 200 yards. Sighted in at 200, a .306 hits slightly more than two inches high at 100. Zeroed at 100, the .306 180-grain bullet drops over five inches at 200 yards.

It will pay to check results at all distances, either by actual firing or from range tables published by ammunition makers. Despite what has happened to others, hundreds of Vancouver Islanders will be hunting deer in the next few weeks with rifles they have not fired at targets. They will have no real assurance that a bullet will go where they aim it. Some will get a buck, but most will miss any chances they have.

It could happen to you.

Cincinnati's Birdie NL Manager of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—

George Birdie Tebbets, who almost steered the underdog Cincinnati Redlegs into the world series, today was named National League manager-of-the-year in the Associated Press annual poll.

Tebbetts won easily. He received 160 of the 207 votes cast by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Fred Haney of Milwaukee was named on 34 ballots. Walt Alston, who guided Brooklyn Dodgers to the league title, received only six votes. Bobby Bragan of Pittsburgh had five and Fred Hutchinson of St. Louis and Mayo Smith of Philadelphia got one each.

A patient, although sometimes fiery, manager, Tebbets molded the Redlegs into a leading pennant contender in one year. They were not eliminated from the race until the next-to-last day of the season and finished in third place only two games behind Brooklyn and one behind second-place Milwaukee.

JUGGED PITCHERS

Birdie had no 20-game winning pitcher in his third season at the Cincinnati helm. His top victory man was Brooks Lawrence with 19 and with help from Hershel Freeman, who had 14 victories in relief. Tebbets manoeuvred and improvised, getting 91 triumphs from an admittedly weak staff.

It was the first first-division finish for Cincinnati since 1944. In the other seasons under Tebbets' direction, they wound up in fifth place each time—with a 74-80 record in 1954 and 75-79 in 1955.

Haney took over the Milwaukee reins from Charley Grimm in mid-June. Less than a month later, the Braves were in first place. Only a driving finish by the Dodgers and their own slump in the last three days of the season, prevented them from bringing the pennant to the Wisconsin metropolis.

Terrier Wins Best-in-Show

Wire-haired fox terrier Drumadon Drivealong of Drivalong Kennels, Victoria, was judged best dog over the weekend in the Victoria City Kennel Club championship held at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

It was also judged the best Canadian-bred dog and the best terrier.

The two-day show attracted 138 entries.

Vernon Preserves Unbeaten Streak

By the Canadian Press

Vernon Canadians, the defending Allan Cup champions, are the only team in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, still to taste defeat in the 1956-57 season.

Canadians preserved their unbeaten record Tuesday night by trouncing Kamloops Chiefs 9-2 in Vernon, while Penticton Vs scrambled to a 4-3 win over Kelowna Packers in Kelowna.

Art Davison led the Canadians to victory with three goals and three assists, while Odie Lowe scored twice for the winners and had two assists. Other Vernon scorers were Merv Bidoski with two, Sherman Blair and Walt Trentini, Johnny Millard and coach Bobby Dawes scored for the losers.

In Kelowna, leftwinger Bob Keil flipped in a backhand shot for the winning goal with 15 seconds left to play. Other Penticton scorers were Walt Peacock with two goals and Ken Schmutz with one. The Kelowna marksmen were Jim Middleton, Greg Jablonski and Orv Lavell.

OUTFIGHT SMOKIES

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP)—Rossland Warriors, newest entry in the Western International Hockey League, made their first appearance before Rossland fans Tuesday night and outfought Trail Smoke Eaters for a 4-2 victory.

LIONS TO UNDERWRITE JUNIOR GRID PLAYOFF

Saturday's B.C. junior football final at MacDonald Park between Royal Roads and Vancouver Meralomas will be underwritten by the B.C. Lions to the extent of $750.

Support for the juniors was announced at the regular monthly meeting of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club at Vancouver Tuesday night.

Winner of the sudden-death clash between Royal Roads, representing the Victoria Junior Canadian Football League, and the Mainland champions will enter the Western Canada semi-final against Alberta's champions, the Edmonton Huskies.

Saturday's game starts at 2 p.m.

'NO GUTS' CHARGE

Dodger (Ex?) Scout Criticizes Alston

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Globe quotes Brooklyn scout A. B. "Turk" Karam as saying Walt Alston, manager of the National League champion Dodgers, has "no guts."

The Globe says Karam criticized Alston for his world series managing in an interview with reporter Charley Laubenstein at South Yarmouth.

"We had good replacements," Karam was quoted as telling Laubenstein. "I noticed Casey Stengel, New York Yankee manager, pulled Enos Slaughter out in the last game. Why didn't Walt pull some of our boys out of there when the chips were down?"

"He's got no guts... that's all."

TEAM TIRED OUT

Asked about the poor showing Dodgers have made in Japan, Karam said:

"This bears out what I said before. The team is still dog-tired. They're just worn out. That stretch drive to win the National League pennant was too much for some of the old-timers."

In Brooklyn E. J. Buzzie Bavasi, vice-president of the Brooklyn club, when informed of the Karam statement, said:

"If Mr. Karam was not misquoted, then he is an ex-Dodger scout."

Of 9,500 students at the Free University of Berlin, 3,000 are from the Soviet-occupied zone of East Germany.

TIME OUT!

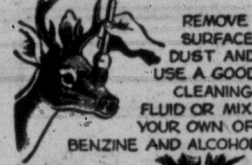

"We may have to abandon our idea. Other firms don't seem interested in forming an office polo team!"

GRAIN QUOTATIONS

CHICAGO
WINNIPEG

CHICAGO (AP) — A storm kicking up dust in the south-west sent wheat futures higher on the Board of Trade today.

While the advance met resistance, several contracts managed to go into high ground. The rest of the grain market was highly erratic. Soybeans were unable to hold early gains.

Pace Another Drop

Prices were at their lowest for the day near the close of today's trading on the Toronto stock exchange. Industrials and base metals were the leaders of the market's seventh straight decline.

Selling in steels, motors and coppers paced the stock market decline at New York today.

Ford's report of sharply lower earnings was credited by brokers for a good deal of the selling rather than news of the armed rebellion in Hungary.

Ford dipped more than a point and other motors reacted in sympathy.

AT TORONTO Canadian Bronze and Aluminum led industrials with two-point declines. Algoma and PRM Inc. were off 1 1/2 points while Trans-Mountain lost 1 1/2 and Pembina 1 1/4. The section's index was off about 1 1/4 points. Burlington Steel showed a point gain.

The base metal index, 15 minutes before the close, was off 1 1/2 points as Hudson Bay lost 1 1/2 points and International Nickel dipped 1/2. Coppers, for the third straight session, suffered from self-offs with Copper Range Chibougamau down 30 cents and half a dozen other issues between 15 and 25 cents.

Irish Copper managed a 25-cent gain.

Quebec Lithium touched a new low of $9.75 with a 25-cent decline.

CONSTRUCTION UP 22% Jan.-Aug. in B.C.

British Columbia's construction industry continued its record breaking boom in the third quarter of 1956.

In August the volume of construction contracts awarded amounted to $37,000,000 compared with $22,000,000 in August, 1955, the B.C. Department of Trade and Industry revealed Tuesday.

The cumulative total of construction contracts in the first eight months of the year reached $285,000,000—an increase of 22 per cent over the same period in 1955.

More houses

The number of residential units completed in the first seven months of 1956 was 18.2 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1955.

Building permit totals for the first eight months show an increase of 13.2 per cent over last year.

Construction began in the third quarter on such large projects as the $1,500,000 public library in Vancouver, a new $1,600,000 provincial court house at Prince George and a $1,800,000 temporary housing project at Kitimat.

Other major construction works launched in July were a $514,900 post office at Vernon; a $429,500 elementary school at Kitimat; a $490,000 junior high school at Dawson Creek.

During August, building permits were issued for a $280,000 apartment block at Port Alberni, Vancouver Island; a $500,000 provincial building at Fort St. John.

Not all such professionals are free to practise in Canada immediately. Most are required to satisfy provincial authorities that they have the necessary qualifications.

Among the engineers were 97 with degrees in aeronautical engineering. Of the 97, 11 arrived in August. Graduate aeronautical engineers from Canadian universities average 12 a year.

Way Cleared For SEC Probe Of Sweet Grass

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge lifted Tuesday a temporary restraining order which had halted Securities and Exchange Commission proceedings to determine whether trading in stock of Great Sweet Grass Oil Ltd. should be stopped on the American Stock Exchange.

U.S. District Judge Burnita S. Matthews said she is not convinced the commission acted illegally in starting the delisting proceedings against the Canadian company. She also said the SEC was "simply trying to have a hearing to decide whether the company had complied" with SEC regulations.

Judge Matthews agreed, however, to hold up effectiveness of her order lifting the restraining order until 3 p.m. today. That was done on the request of company lawyers, who said they intend to ask the U.S. Court of Appeals to intervene and hold up the SEC proceedings.

The commission has said it has reason to believe a report filed with it in January misrepresented the value of the concern's oil and gas reserves. It also said the company's annual financial report, filed in May, might have been false and misleading in its valuation of oil and gas properties acquired in Alberta and in Oklahoma.

Vancouver Teen-Agers Operated Big Car Theft Ring Say Police

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—Police arrested nine teen-agers Monday night to break up what is described as the biggest ring of juvenile car thieves in the city's history.

The boys, from 11 to 15 years old and all attending the same school, were taken to juvenile detention home pending further investigation.

Detectives said more arrests will be made but they would give no details of what led to the arrests or how the break came. They said the number of stolen cars involved has already reached 50 and the total is not complete.

Police said the cars were taken for "joy rides." They were started by shorting the ignition wires. The thefts were made during the last three weeks, many of them at football games, police said.

PARKING GARAGES URGED

VANCOUVER—A report to city council Tuesday called for eventual banning of all ground level parking except in basements in the "high density" downtown area.

The report, presented by the Technical Planning Board, made recommendations to improve the parking situation which would cost about $9,000,000.

It not only recommended eventual banning of ground parking downtown, both on and off the street, but said all worker-parking downtown should be eliminated. It said multi-tiered parking garages should be constructed for short-term parkers.

FRUIT GROWERS WANT PROBE

PENTICTON—Demands are mounting from British Columbia's 3,650 fruit growers for an immediate provincial royal commission to investigate their $20,000,000 industry.

The demand, sparked by a Pentiction "ginger group," is reported to be by-passing the advice of the executive of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association.

In Pentiction, some 185 fruit growers voted overwhelmingly this fall for the commission.

One of the reasons they stated: "We want an impartial investigation to tell us why we get five cents a box for apples that sell for over four dollars at the retail level."

FRAUD CHARGE

VANCOUVER—Norman Carmichael, a former parks board member, was remanded Tuesday until Oct. 29 when he appeared in police court on a charge of obtaining money by false pretences.

Carmichael is also a former boxing commissioner for Vancouver.

JAILED FOR BREAKIN

VANCOUVER—Five-year penitentiary terms were handed out in County Court Tuesday to two men described by Judge J. A. McGeer as incorrigibles. They are Harvey Lyons, 33, and George Payton, 38, who were found guilty last week of breaking into a produce company here July 1.

FIRE HAZARD REMOVED

PENTICTON—Workmen Tuesday finished removing 60 tons of coal from a school bin here after spontaneous combustion caused a smouldering fire in the bin.

The job was a tedious one because proper equipment was not available. Workmen with gas masks and shovels descended into the 14-foot bin to fill a 300-pound capacity bucket which was then lifted to the surface by a tractor. They said they shovelled glowing coals into the bucket at one point.

STRIKE AVERTED

VANCOUVER—A strike by 1,200 inside electrical workers in Vancouver was averted Tuesday when representatives of the electrical contractors and local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers reached a settlement on a wage raise.

The settlement will be put before the IBEW membership by a referendum vote this week with a recommendation of acceptance from union president John Watlington and business agent Malcolm Morrison.

Details of Tuesday's compromise settlement were not revealed.

SPCA CONFERENCE

KELOWNA—Delegates attending the first Okanagan Valley conference of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals deplored the practice of offering animals as prizes and also went on record asking the B.C. government to remove the sales tax on dog and cat food.

SHOOT 25-LB. LYNX

PENTICTON—Colin Coss of Kelden shot and killed a 25-pound lynx that was stealing chickens from his pen.

The animal, about as big as a collie dog, had leaped the fence to get at the chickens.

DRIVER CHARGED

CRANBROOK—James Victor Waddington, about 25, of Edmonton, was arrested and charged with criminal negligence when he was released from Kimberley and District Hospital Monday.

The charge resulted from the traffic death Oct. 4 of Axel Harold Granberg, about 65, of Cranbrook. Waddington appeared before Magistrate Richard Shiell of Cranbrook, and was released on bail until Nov. 28.

Millions of Tons Of Oil Untapped

BRISTOL, England (Reuters) — The world's petroleum industries will need about $120,000,000,000 to finance expansion for the next 10 years, C. M. Vignoles, managing director of Shell-Mex and British Petroleum Ltd., said here. Speaking at a fuel and power exhibit, Vignoles said some 115,000,000,000

Nixon Is Question Mark For Canada if Ike Wins

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—Official American relations with the rest of the world will be little changed by the Nov. 6 U.S. general election, regardless of whether the Republicans or the Democrats win.

This means, in the view of experienced diplomats and other foreign observers here, that Canada and other foreign countries will experience little if any effects as a result of the election, in which the presidency and control of Congress are at stake.

A possible exception is Canadian agriculture and even this hinges on a couple of "ifs"—if the Democrats win possession of the White House, if they try to institute the rigid high farm price supports they have been promising in their campaign speeches.

Despite what may be said in the heat of campaign argument, there is little basic difference between the Republicans and the Democrats on the fundamentals of domestic and foreign policy. If there is any change as a result of a switch in administration it will be one of method and approach rather than essentials.

To put it bluntly, the entire postelection prospect for the world at large might depend upon whether Eisenhower, assuming he wins the election, manages to survive the next four years in office. If he wins, he will be 68 years old, with the added hazard of being a recovered heart patient.

Under the American constitutional process, he would be succeeded if he died in office by Richard M. Nixon, his untied and—in many quarters—unpopular 43-year-old vice-president. Nixon is little known in many key areas abroad. He has travelled ance between the farmer's production costs and his return for his produce. Under the "flexible" supports the Republicans now have in operation, the wheat price support is 86½ per cent—a difference of only 3½ percentage points.

Largely, the future American attitude on foreign trade and trade restrictions depends upon the economic situation in the United States. Should there be an immediate outcry for high tariffs to protect American industries, American labor and American wage levels.

There is little difference between the two parties on foreign policy. In this field, as one distinguished American newspaper columnist noted the other day, virtually all of the Eisenhower policies are "hand-me-downs" from previous Democratic administrations—the Marshall Plan of foreign aid, the Truman Doctrine setting limits on Communist territorial expansion, the Point Four program of assistance to underdeveloped countries.

"Apart from Stevenson's call for a ban on H-bomb tests, the political campaign has produced little conflict between the two parties on foreign policy. Foreign aid has not been mentioned, nor has the provocative question of the admission of Red China to the United Nations, which both parties vigorously oppose.

Should the Democrats win administrative control, it would mean a new secretary of state and the departure of John Foster Dulles from the international scene. Here, foreign diplomats feel, there would be a change in the American approach—though not in essentials—in the foreign field.

Royal Bank Head Hits Attitude Of U.S. Investors

DENVER, Col. (CP)—The desire of American investors to retain almost absolute ownership and control over enterprises in Canada prevents Canadians from gaining more than a token interest in some companies, James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said today.

Mr. Muir told the annual meeting of the Rocky Mountain Oil and Gas Association this aspect of American investment in Canada has left Canadians "understandably concerned, not so much with United States participation and control as such, as with the extremely small Canadian participation and voice in shaping the destiny of certain important sectors of their economy."

All Dogsh Beware: You Shoon May Shtart Sheeing Pink People

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP)—Dogs may soon be seeing pink men with the aid of a canine cocktail developed recently by the Warner-Chilcott Laboratories here.

Paxitall, described as the first tranquilizer drug produced especially for animals, was developed by the laboratories over the past 2½ years. Dr. Joseph M. Feld, the laboratories' director of veterinary medicine, said Monday that the drug would affect dogs much as "one or two" drinks affects humans.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Marvin Lee Perryman used a slide rule and a sheet of maps to beat an $85 speeding fine.

The 29-year-old engineer proved to Judge Frank Ropke that the officer who arrested him would have had to drive 140 miles an hour to catch him had he been doing 75 as the officer alleged.

"That's impossible," said Perryman, who was appealing his fine.

The judge agreed.

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—The Thomas Street branch of Michigan National Bank closed suddenly Tuesday when 14 customers rushed into the street with tears in their eyes. Tear-gas nozzles turned on just before closing time, filling the bank with the irritating fog. Bank officials have not been able to determine why the anti-robbery system suddenly started.

ANTWERP (AP)—Disturbed while robbing an Antwerp home, a thief fled empty handed over a nine-foot wall, stopped for breath and looked around. He was in the courtyard of Antwerp's prison. That was Sunday. He's still there.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. (AP)—A hunter killed a deer, went up to inspect his kill—and fell dead of a heart attack.

Authorities said that 61-year-old Ira Matheny and his wife, Nellie, went deer hunting. Mrs. Matheny said they separated. She heard a shot. They shouted back and forth at each other.

Don't Flood Market Howe Warns Japan

TOKYO (UP)—Canada's trade and commerce minister warned Japan today that if Japan attempts to flood the Canadian market with textiles, his nation will impose import restrictions.

C. D. Howe, currently on a 15-day official visit of Japan, told a news conference that there already has been an attempt by some quarter to impose restrictions on such Japanese goods as textiles and plywood.

But these complaints have not been "serious—not extreme enough" to warrant official action, he said.

"But there will be (restrictions placed)," he said, "if any attempt is made to flood the market."

"It would not be to the interest of Japan to flood our country with textiles," he said. Canada can absorb an increase in textile imports, but no "sharp" increase, he said.

Howe said, however, that Canada expects the "same treatment" as Japan gives the United States in voluntarily limiting its textile exports to America.

New Way Relieves Arthritic, Rheumatic Pain Without Pills

Greaseless, odorless cream penetrates deep, speeds flow of fresh, rich blood into sore areas; helps drive away pain-causing pressure.

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—Science has now developed an odorless, greaseless cream that acts in a new way to bring hours and hours of relief from pains of arthritis and rheumatism—without the need of taking pills and other medicines that may upset the system.

Rubbed gently into painful areas, this cream penetrates so deep it actually vanishes into the skin. It speeds the flow of fresh, rich blood into sore muscles, joints. Actually helps drive away pain-causing pressure and congestion.

Used by doctors in England, France and the U.S.A., this remarkable cream is now available without prescription at drug stores everywhere. Ask for Infrarub. Only $1.39 a large tube. Infrarub is guaranteed to give comforting relief from arthritis-rheumatism pains or your money back.

More Accustomed to Democrats

Some Canadians feel that Canada, in her official relationships with the United States, might get more consideration from the Democrats. This may stem from the fact that Democratic administrations have become more familiar to Canadians than have Republican administrations. For 20 years, through the regimes of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt and former President Harry S. Truman, the Canadians worked closely with the Democrats. Their recent experience with Republicans has been only within the 3½ years of the Eisenhower administration.

Canadians also have tended to regard the Democrats as the low tariff party. This, related to the long-standing Canadian desire to increase exports to the United States, has perhaps made Canadians sympathetic to the Democratic cause.

But this historic yardstick is vanishing. The Democrats abandoned their traditional policy on free trade at their leadership convention in Chicago in August. Also, textiles and other secondary industries in recent years have invaded the South, the traditional Democratic stronghold, and the Democrats are becoming as tariff-minded as are the Republicans.

For example, it was Senator Walter George of Georgia, the respected and internationally-minded Democratic chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, who attempted at the last session of Congress to impose a tariff increase on imports of Canadian hardboard.

Canadian agriculture might suffer should Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, manage to unseat Dwight D. Eisenhower in the presidential contest. The Democrats have promised a return to rigid, high farm price supports. The Republicans are for flexible, lower supports.

High supports, in the long run, could serve only to swell the already top heavy surplus of farm products held by the U.S. government. Canada's principal interest here is in the government-held surplus of American wheat, which threatens traditional Canadian export wheat markets through the U.S. giveaway and other surplus disposal programs.

Yet, even here, the difference between the two parties is not great. The Democratic promise would mean that wheat would be supported at 90 per cent of so-called parity, a complicated formula which seeks to strike a bal-

Canadian Girl Charges $10,000 Extortion Plot

Husband on RCMP Most-Wanted List

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The daughter of a Canadian mining executive appeared in court Tuesday and accused four men of trying to extort $10,000 from her and her husband.

Mrs. Louis Allan Molnar, 21, the former Rita Ann Labine of Toronto, identified the men, three of whom are former secret service agents.

Through an interpreter she repeated the charges: That the men entered the Molnar apartment Oct. 6 and at gunpoint tried to extort $10,000 on threats of deportation. They said the Molnars' papers were not in order.

She said she and her husband were unable to raise that much cash, but paid some and then gave the men jewels, radios and watches with a promise to pay more cash later.

The Molnars then contacted lawyers and police. The case is continuing.

Molnar is on the most-wanted list of the RCMP.

New Tracks Spur Hunt For Lost B.C. Hunter

PRINCETON, B.C. (CP) — which has dumped almost four feet of snow at the summit, is improving.

Searchers looking for 18-year-old Harvey Garrison found fresh tracks in the snow at the 6,000-foot level and RCMP said they have "a strong feeling" the lost hunter will be brought out today.

Garrison has been missing since the weekend when he separated from a companion in the Whipsaw Creek area, 19 miles southwest of here and 200 miles east of Vancouver. RCMP said the weather.

Weather prevented a helicopter, trucked to the area from Vancouver, from taking part in today's search.

New Plans Proposed For City Hall, Court

Courthouse On Wharf St?

Mayor Percy Scurrah said today he has recommended to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant that Victoria's proposed new courthouse be built on the waterfront side of the 1100 block, Wharf Street, between Fort and View Streets.

The location he favors is almost opposite Dowell's Carriage. He said since making the suggestion the matter has never been considered by the Capital District Improvement Commission.

The mayor said the site would permit two storeys being built below street level, for storage of records. He felt there would be adequate parking in the basement waterfront level with elevators to the courts.

"It would greatly help to beautify our waterfront," he said.

OPEN MIND

Both the mayor and Ald. Dowell are members of the CIDC, which, according to Mr. Chant, will make a recommendation on the site. Ald. Dowell says he has an "open mind" on the matter. Commission chairman R. A. Pennington said on Monday that as far as he knew the commission had not been asked to suggest a site.

Works Minister Chant said planning and drawings for the courthouse are already underway.

Three sites have been mentioned earlier: Behind the old courthouse at Langley and Bastion, on the government parking lot at Belleville and Government and directly in front of Christ Church Cathedral on Quadra.

Detectives Cleared by Commission

Victoria Police Commission was told today there is no third degree or measure of force used in questioning of suspects by Victoria city police officers.

Deputy chief Harry Mercer, who attended a police commission meeting in the absence of Police Chief John Blackstock, commented on remarks in Assize Court last Thursday.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson ruled that the police officers and Richard Berry went beyond their power in questioning a suspect in a breaking and entering case which occurred August 16.

Charge against the suspect, Ernest Dunstan, was dismissed after Mr. Justice Wilson said, "I don't want to restrict the police in their right to question suspects, but I think they went too far in this case." He said it was the duty of the court to protect citizens against being unfairly questioned.

Deputy chief Mercer told the commission, "I feel satisfied there is no third degree or force used here. In this case it was a matter of whether a statement was admissible or inadmissible. There was questioning, but there was no force. The suspect came in (voluntarily); he was not brought in."

The commission accepted the report and dropped the matter.

OTTAWA ENGINEER COMING TO STUDY BRIDGE AID BID

An Ottawa engineer of the Federal Board of Transport is expected to arrive here in the near future to examine a Victoria claim for federal government aid in construction of Point Ellice Bridge.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said today the inspector will be sent out as result of a city request for a grant specified in the Dominion Railways Act.

Under the act the department will pay 30 per cent of the cost of the end of any bridge which passes over a railway, up to a maximum of $150,000.

The CNR, which must have access under the west end of the bridge, is being asked to make a grant of 15 per cent of the cost of building that end of the bridge.

Build Right Here—Mayor

Building of a new multi-storey city hall on the present city hall site will be studied by local planning groups on suggestion of Mayor Percy Scurrah.

The mayor said today he would seek reaction to a plan for construction of a new hall, or joint Victoria-Saanich hall, on the present site, with the ground floor reserved for a block of stores. He envisaged a seven-storey building.

The mayor said the idea was put forward by city manager C. C. Wyatt and city assessor Alfred Joyce. It is estimated that such a building would bring the city a revenue of from $25,000 to $30,000 a year in store rentals.

HELP PAY

This fund would be used to assist in paying for the building.

"There would be ideal parking available on the site of the present fire hall," said the mayor. "We have to go ahead with the building of a new fire hall, in any event."

The mayor said the suggestion would be forwarded for study to Capital Region Planning Board, Town Planning Commission and the special joint-hall committee of Saanich and Victoria council members under Ald. W. P. Pinfold.

At present that committee is studying use of Topaz Park or the Protestant Orphanage site for a new hall.

Rowdies Face Harsh Action On Halloween

Victoria police commission ruled today that rowdism and indiscriminate throwing of fireworks in the downtown area this Halloween "will be stepped upon."

The warning came at conclusion of a commission meeting where it was pointed out the city has two conflicting regulations on use of fireworks.

One says fireworks may be sold in Victoria within the three days prior to Halloween including that date. Another states it is illegal to set off fireworks anywhere in the city, without express permission of city council.

Commissioner Gordon Carter clarified the stand of the police commission:

RIOT THREAT
"The use of fireworks with discretion will be overlooked. Rowdism and indiscriminate throwing of firecrackers especially in the downtown area, will be stepped upon."

Last Halloween police closed Yates between Blanshard and Douglas to traffic after rowdies threatened riot. Cars were bounced to the sidewalk, fireworks were thrown at eye level at passengers alighting from buses, fires were set in waste containers and one youth suffered crushed legs when a car he was attempting to move, backed up.

The commission laid plans for this Halloween at an earlier meeting, but has not disclosed them. It had been suggested auxiliary service police might be employed that night.

ANCIENT TOTEMS TO BE PRESERVED

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The Indians of B.C. have finally risen up and demanded that the paleface pay for this country. All I can say is, it is about time.

If we owe the Indians of B.C. anything, let us, by all means, pay them.

What the Indians of B.C. have neglected to say (at least so far) is how much we owe them for this country which we thought was ours but now turns out to be not paid for. It would be nice to know how much we owe before we start paying it.

(I will admit this is contrary to general practice in B.C., especially around election time. But still.)

One way of deciding how much we owe the Indians of B.C. for the province of B.C. would be to appoint a Royal Commission of Enquiry.

The Royal Commission might require a little time to arrive at a conclusion, but the Indians have waited for 100 years, so they are used to waiting.

I would not like to be accused of attempting to influence a Royal Commission. However, I make bold to suggest the Commission use as a term of reference the most widely publicized Indian-Paleface real estate transaction yet completed, the sale of Manhattan Island.

Manhattan Island was sold by the Indians for $24, although there is some talk of a bottle of rum having been thrown in for good measure.

Manhattan Island later turned out to be comparatively worthless, it being only a portion of New York city, which, as everyone knows, isn't such a bad place to visit, but who would wish to live there?

On this basis, B.C. should be worth something in excess of $24, as just about everyone wishes to live there. So it would seem we owe the Indians of B.C. over $24. And this is not a sum to be bandied about lightly, even with the dollar at today's value.

In fact, it is possible the Royal Commission would set the value of B.C. at as much as $29.95.

Add to that the cost of the Royal Commission itself—say, $3,000,000,000,000.01—and the people of B.C. might find it difficult to raise the necessary cash to pay off their honest debts.

In which case, only one course is open to the Indians of B.C.

They would have to make like heap big Finance Company, and start proceedings for repossession.

Which would be okay with a lot of us who feel it is time we gave the country back to the Indians, anyway.

How the Indians would feel about this is another question.

Ugh! I have spoken.

Dr. Fletcher, Half Century In Medicine, Dies

Medical practitioner for 50 years, Dr. George William Fletcher, 78, died suddenly Tuesday at his home, 877 Island Road.

Prior to his retirement in 1952, Dr. Fletcher was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist here for 10 years.

Former dean of the department of Laryngology, University of Manitoba, he was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of the American Bronchoscopic Society.

He was born in Fletcher, Ont., named after his family, and graduated in medicine from the University of Toronto. Dr. Fletcher practised in Winnipeg before coming here in 1942.

Funeral services will be held at McCall's Funeral Home, Friday at 3 p.m. Dr. W. G. Wilson will officiate. Cremation will follow.

Citizen Hits Prowler With 'Health Shoe'

A prowler who attempted to break into the basement suite of Brian Johnson, 3055 Milgrove, got a rude reception early yesterday.

Johnson, who spotted the man peering through the window, picked up a heavy, cast-iron "health shoe" and threw it, striking the prowler on the forehead.

Johnson said today he then ran out the basement door and gave chase but the man had a short lead and disappeared over a neighbor's fence.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY
In Saanich police court today, John Osborne Dow, 25, of Vancouver, entered a plea of not guilty to attempted breaking and entering of the suite. He was remanded one day.

Johnson said he and his wife were sleeping about 1 a.m. when he was awakened by the sound of someone prying at a window.

"I was half asleep and walked up and listened at the window. Then the guy went around to a side window where there was no blind."

"I made a bit of noise trying to find the shoe and he disappeared again. I stood and waited for about three minutes and then he appeared at the window."

"When he flashed a small pencil flashlight I wound up and threw the shoe through the window."

Johnson said he was standing about four feet back from the window. He said it was surprising the man wasn't knocked unconscious by the shoe, which weighs about seven pounds.

Harrison was ordered to post a $500 bond and report to a probation officer for six months. He admitted taking the car from the Gladwell Motors' used car lot.

Police identified the driver of the car as Lloyd Jones, 150 Linden. The accident occurred at 4.45 p.m.

PUC Approves Hike in Rural Water Rates

Partial Review Promised in Year

The B.C. Public Utilities Commission today approved a rate increase for Greater Victoria Water District customers in rural areas.

Approved was a 40 per cent increase provided that each ratepayer affected by the increase will receive also a 5 per cent reduction of their total bill.

The 5 per cent reduction will be reviewed after one year and will be cancelled if the income from the increase is not sufficient to meet anticipated cost increases.

ABOUT 75 CENTS

The PUC decision will mean an increase of about 75 cents on average water bills for residents in the unorganized territories adjacent to Victoria—View Royal, Colwood, Langford, and Metchosin areas generally.

Hearing on the increase was held October 3. The rural areas, who are now paying about 20 per cent less for water than residents of the four Greater Victoria municipalities, opposed the bid for a rate boost.

The boost was asked according to water district officials, because of higher costs of supply and maintenance of lines and meters in thinly populated areas.

Dairymen To Fight Formula

B.C. dairy farmers announced today they intend to dispute the Milk Board formula for setting the price producers receive for their milk.

The British Columbia Federation of Agriculture in Victoria revealed it is to hire a recognized expert economist to study dairy production cost factors in B.C. with a view to evolving a "more equitable formula."

"This expert will be an authority whose findings cannot help but be recognized by the B.C. Milk Board," said Charles E. S. Walls, secretary-manager of the federation.

Mr. Walls said a meeting of delegates from dairy producer organizations representing about 90 per cent of dairy farmers on Vancouver Island and in the Fraser Valley met in an all-day session in Vancouver Tuesday.

The meeting was called because of dairy farmers' dissatisfaction over the formula price devised by the B.C. Milk Board, which in their settlement cheques just issued for September milk, gave them a price for certain classes of milk considerably less than they were receiving even four years ago.

1,000 Face Prosecution For Poll Tax Non-Payment

Almost 1,000 Victorians today are liable for prosecution for non-payment of city road and poll taxes, according to City Hall tax collector Thomas Harris.

He said final demand notices are being sent out now, but pointed out persons who have not paid were liable for court action five days after the second reminder was received.

"Prosecutions will follow unless payment or an exemption claim is received at City Hall," he stated.

LAST TIME

This is the last year Victorians will have to pay road and poll taxes. They were abolished this year, but it's not effective until January 1, 1957.

Court action could result in fine up to $25 plus costs, plus payment of taxes owing.

Those who pay are non-

Accordianist with the White Heather variety concert party performing here tonight Will Starr, never heard of Elvin Presley before coming to Mont-real in September.

Admitting to "the worst voice in the world," he made a recording in Vancouver along the Elvin Presley "for laughs."

The discs sold out in one day in a large downtown music store.

"It was silly all the way through," he said of the record.

The 32-year-old "dark-haired Scot from Croy is well known in Victoria. This is his sixth visit here since 1949.

"There are a lot of Scotsmen in this city so the house is always packed!" The troupe performs tonight at 8 in the Royal Theatre and again Thursday.

$1,000 INSTRUMENT
Mr. Starr obligingly pushed a few buttons of his $1,000 shoulder-machine for us today while still pyjama-clad, explaining the difference between his accordion and the piano variety.

"This is a button or continental accordion," he said, squeezing it reverently, "and as different from the piano type as a fiddle."

A Simple A-B-C Procedure For Making Hostess Aprons

By PENNY SAVER

Making aprons is a snap! I, whose sewing ability is nil, say that with complete and utter confidence. If you can successfully wield a pair of scissors you can make an attractive hostess apron in no time at all. First you buy five-eighths yard of flocked applique organdy. On this piece of material is marked an apron cut-out, ties and a pocket. Just cut around the pattern, cut the applique slits through which the ties run, sew on the pocket where marked, and there you have a frothy hostess apron for you or for friends. There is no hemming to be done, because the applique pattern is the outline, and the hem.

With Christmas coming quickly along you'll find these aprons wonderful gift ideas that you can make yourself in spare moments. You can buy

A good buy are cotton loop mats that are wonderful for the bathroom. The edges are fringed and the mat itself is as soft as can be. They're skid resistant for there's a durable rubber coating at the back which locks individual tufts in place and prevents wrinkling and slipping. Washing instructions come along, too. They are 24 by 36 inches and come in yellow or coral pink. Another tuft loop rug comes in the 4 by 6-foot size, would be just the thing for bedroom, hall or living room. These come in a dove grey or bright blue, and cost $6.99.

With the popularity of the comfy car coats growing and growing, wooden coggle buttons, like those found on fishermen's coats, are in demand. You can buy them in four sizes with either the pin backs, that need no sewing, or regular loop backs. These buttons are very handy, for they need no button holes, only loops. Polished, natural wood ones are 15 cents each and two for 15 cents, depending on the size. Smaller plastic ones are two for 15 cents and come in grey, white or brown.

On Etiquette

About terminating phone calls

Regarding phone conversations, who should terminate them? It seems to me that the person calling should, just as she would a visit at my home. Yet I have friends who seem to wait for me to end the conversation when they have called me. I notice on TV and radio that the person receiving the call invariably ends it. This seems rude to me, but perhaps I am old fashioned.

Louise Davis answers: Your theory is good but does not always work. Some people just don't know how to end a conversation. Some like to talk on and on with no thought whatsoever that the person on the other end of the line might be inconvenienced or pressed for time.

But the end has to come sometime, so if the caller does not make the first move the other person should begin the subtle windup. Many people making a call forget that they started the conversation or are unaware that they should end it, to them it's anybody's turn.

If a person is called to the phone while in the midst of a meal, while entertaining callers or doing an important task, she has every right to beg off with gracious apologies.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

Mothers with "near-a-year" babies frequently write me to ask why their children are losing interest in food. In some cases an appetite lag may be caused by teething. But with most babies it's due to slow-down in the rate of growth, and a natural variation in the desire for food. If your little one is going through a "picky" period it's helpful to remember that when baby is hungry enough, he'll let you know soon enough. Rotating colors and kinds of food helps service with a smile (instead of a frown) often works wonders. New dishes also spur appetite interest.

Variety galore for toddlers! When sparkling little teeth are ready to chew, Gerber Junior Foods are just the thing. They have a tender, evenly minced texture that tots with a few teeth can manage so easily. Wonderful variety, for continued mealtime magic. 8 Fruits—5 Vegetables—7

Vegetable and Meat Dinners—3 Desserts—3 Meats. All have the true-flavor appeal baby's been used to in Gerber Strained Foods.

Interesting menu offerings for your toddler are to be found in "Gerber's Recipes for Toddlers."

For your free copy, just write me, Mrs. Dan Gerber, Dept. B, Box 4027, Terminal A, Toronto, Ont.

Closed issue. When you wash baby's zippered tops, it helps to close the zippers before dunking. Saves zippers from getting bent—keeps garments in better shape.

More that's new! Toddlers dearly love "grown-up" foods and here's a new main dish with a real "grown-up" quality. Gerber Junior Beef and Noodles with Vegetables is a happy and flavorful combination of lean beef, tender egg noodles and carrot morsels for good protein content and high vitamin-A value. Gerber Beef and Noodles with Vegetables makes an ideal transition dish between Junior Foods and regular family foods.

"Where Your Fashion Dollar Brings Greater Satisfaction"

Old Victoria, Places and Names A Part of Octogenarian's Youth

By TERRY FRENCH

Mrs. Annie Bent, who celebrates her 80th birthday Friday, is a native-born Victorian, and her memories of "old Victoria" are vivid and exact.

She can remember as a child standing on the wooden bridge where we now have the Causeway and watching the Indians in their canoes paddle under the bridge en route from their reservation to the city.

With her two brothers and two sisters, she would walk across this bridge, which was built on piles, on the way to their grandmother's home in James Bay. Transportation out that way was confined to horse and buggy, so that the children had a good walk to and from.

Does she remember when the bridge was torn down and the marsh filled in? "Of course. It was not so long ago . . . only about 40 years."

BORN IN ESQUIMALT

Mrs. Bent was born Annie Porter, in a little house in Esquimalt along the main road through the village.

A large, age-colored framed picture of old Esquimalt is a prize possession of this active and vibrant octogenarian. "Here's where I lived, and up here on the hill is where my aunt's house was. This is St. Paul's Church, but it was moved up the road when the Navy expanded."

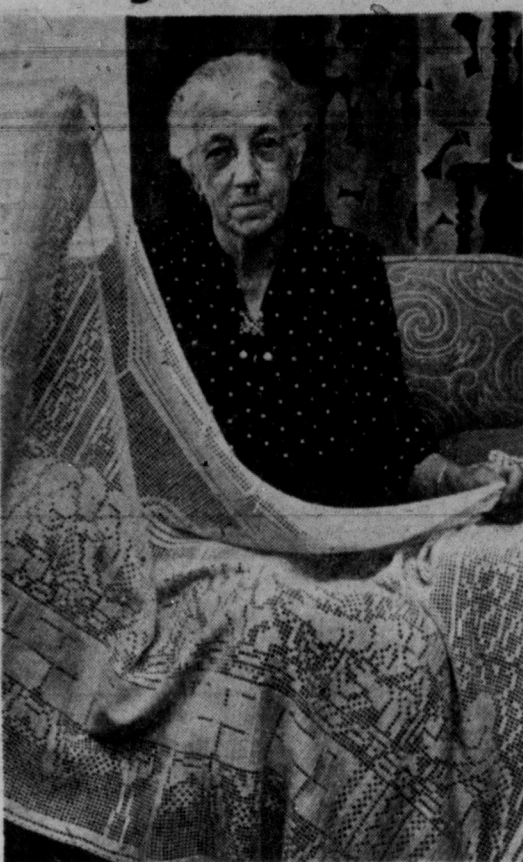

She traced a line across the picture, through houses and trees, and showed where the "yard," as they called it then, is now.

Transportation from Victoria to Esquimalt ran only as far as the Half-Way House, which was literally "half way to Esquimalt." From here King's stage carried passengers to the village. "Most times, we walked from here. In fact, we usually walked to and from town to home. It wasn't far. Everyone did it."

Downtown Victoria has, of course, changed a great deal from the days of Mrs. Bent's covered board sidewalks and rough main streets. If it were raining, she remembers it was better in those days to stay on one side, under the sheltering cover of store fronts than to risk shin-deep mud on the "main streets," either Douglas or Government Street.

With a twinkle in her eye, Mrs. Bent said, "Downtown was not always as it is today. I remember when a gully ran right through the centre of town . . . at Johnson and Douglas Streets."

Names of old families in Victoria, families that are a part of the city and province history were recalled by Mrs. Bent.

"I started this piece of crochet work sometime after I was 75," said "birthday girl," Mrs. Bent, an 80-year resident of Victoria. The five by three-foot piece of crochet is patterned with the "Last Supper."

reminding, mentally pointed out the homes of businessmen and various important people in Victoria in the early 1900's.

She moved, with her family, to Victoria when she became of school age, and she attended Central School on Yates Street, where now stands the modern Central Junior High School.

Still living are her sister, Mrs. R. C. Eccles and two brothers, Mr. Al Porter and Mr. Robert J. Porter, all of Victoria. A real pioneer family, their parents were British. Their father was born in Bristol and came to Canada as a young man, and their mother, born in Scotland, came around the Horn in a sailing vessel when she was very young. The trip took seven months.

Mrs. Bent now lives with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gregson, 474 Burnside Road. Her other children are Mrs. Alf (Ethel) Taylor and Mr. Ernest John Bent.

She doesn't seem to find time to get old, for she spends a couple of days a week visiting and caring for other members of her immediate family, who, though younger than her, do not enjoy her robust health.

Crocheting is her main pastime and hobby. Her latest project is a large runner crocheted in the "Lord's Prayer" pattern. One look at the pattern, which required the careful line marking of a pin to keep it straight, is proof positive of her ability to see well and do fine work.

The birthday will not go unmarked by her family, for Friday will be an "at home" from 2 to 4:30 and 8 to 10 p.m., and a family dinner. There's little doubt that a blazing birthday cake will be centre of attraction, and I'm sure that all 80 candles will be blown out with one puff.

Happy Birthday, Mrs. Bent. And may you have many more!

Drill Team Forms Guard of Honor For Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Thom

Members of the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, in their uniforms of white satin, formed an impressive guard of honor for Donald James Thom and his bride, the former Miss Devona Joy Simpson, once a member of the team, as they left First United Church following their recent wedding.

The young couple were married in an evening ceremony conducted by Rev. A. I. Higgins. The setting was of autumn-toned chrysanthemums. Mrs. Roberto Wood was organist, and accompanied soloist, Miss Peggy Schoen who sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

The attractive, dark-haired bride was given in marriage by her father.

She was gowned in a floor-length bridal dress of lace over satin with iridescent sequins and seed pearls highlighting the mandarin collar and outlining the strapless bodice. A tiered skirt of lace featured a centre panel, her fingertip veil of illusion net was delicately embroidered and held to a coronet of mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls. The semi-cascade bridal bouquet was of American Beauty roses and white carnations with trailing streamers knotted with white blossoms. Her earrings were a gift of the groom. She is the daughter of Mr. E. G. Simpson, 2830 Prior Street, and Mrs. I. Simpson, 1516 Earliston Street.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Shirley Sadler, and bridesmaids, Miss Shirley Fulton, Miss Marie Johnston, Miss Marlene Matthews and Miss Gail Thom, sister of the groom, were gowned similarly in coral-toned crystalline, full-skirted waltz-length dresses. Strapless bodices of taffeta were topped by a crystalline overlay extending to puff sleeves. The waistlines featured folded sashes ending in back bows. They wore aqua leather headresses, the tone of which was repeated in the background of colonial bouquets of white carnations and chrysanthemums.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thom, of Kitimat, B.C., had his brother, George Thom, Kitimat, as best man. The bride's brother, Verne Simpson, and another brother of the groom, Jim Thom, Phil Pedneault and John Lorne ushered guests to pews marked with white chrysanthemums and satin ribbons.

A candlelit table decorated with pink chrysanthemums was centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a swan and bell at a reception party held in the Golden Slipper Ballroom. Toast to the bride's future happiness was proposed by Peter Bowe.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip by motor to Portland, the bride wore a shell pink two-piece suit of cashmere-finished wool with a Chinese mink collar. Her hat was in tone and her accessories of chocolate brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Thom will make their home at 1516 Earliston Drive when they return.

Baskets of Chrysanthemums Deck St. John's for Wedding Ceremony

Baskets of pink, yellow and white chrysanthemums were placed in St. John's Anglican Church for the wedding which united Patricia Anne Mawdsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Mawdsley, 3697 Craigmillar Avenue, with Frederick V. Vosper, son of Capt. and Mrs. W. A. Vosper, 5427 Fowler Avenue.

Bride Wore Elizabethan Gown of Lace and Tulle

Marriage vows were exchanged last Monday in St. Andrew's Cathedral between Rose Marie Devlin and Edward Ernest Thompson. Father R. Cunningham officiated. Soloist was Larry Lamoureux and the organist, Miss M. McKay.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Devlin, 3079 Albany Road, and her groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson, 3271 Wicklow Street.

Chantilly lace over tulle and satin was choice of the bride for her wedding gown. It was in the Elizabethan style with winged collar studded with seed pearls;illy point sleeves and a bouffant skirt that extended into a train.

With this was worn a chapel veil and the bride carried a cascade bouquet of roses and carnations. She was given in marriage by her father.

Four senior attendants were Miss Valerie Doney, Mesachie Lake, B.C., maid of honor; Mrs. Don Hardisty, matron of honor; Miss Sylvia Tenney, Lake Cowichan, B.C., and the bride's sister, Miss Doreen Devlin, bridesmaids. They wore gowns of nylon net and lace over tulle in tones of green, shrimp pink, cornflower blue and pale blue, respectively. The flower girl, Miss Irma Thompson, was in yellow. They all wore matching head pieces and carried cascade bouquets of chrysanthemums and carnations.

Best man was Lyle Thompson, Smithers, B.C., and the ushers were Martin Dohm, Kamloops; Gordon Pacey and Thomas Merick, both of Duncan, and Don Hardisty, Victoria.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. John Bell on Government Street, where a three-tier cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was cut. Douglas Robson, Lake Cowichan, proposed the toast to the bride.

The honeymoon is being spent in Portland and at other places in the south. The bride travelled in a fitted beige suit with copper and avocado green accessories. Her corsage was gold and chrysanthemums.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Moderate exercise helps keep the heart in good condition. It seems strange that the heart needs exercise when we know that it does enough work every 24 hours to lift a 10 to 15 ton weight to a height of five or six feet.

Here are some other things which exercise will do. It speeds up metabolism, stimulates circulation and perspiration, improves body tone and nourishment. It relieves nervous tension and improves elimination. Consistent daily exercise also can raise low blood pressure. It limbers up our joints and keeps us supple. It helps carry away waste materials.

The following exercise will strengthen the muscles of the torso. Lie on the floor on your back with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Raise the hips from the floor so that the body weight is supported by the shoulders and the feet. While in this position contract the muscles of the abdomen and the hips. Hold for a few seconds. Release. Contract and hold. Continue. Lower hips to the floor. Rest and repeat.

The following exercise is splendid for the back muscles. Lie on the floor on your abdomen, legs straight, arms stretched out in front of you. Raise your head, left arm, and your right leg from the floor. Reach up! Lower arm, leg

Food and Drug Inspector Speaks at CAC Meeting

"Before you buy food or drugs, read labels carefully, especially noticing the list of ingredients," advised Earl Ketcheson, food and drug inspector, department of national health and welfare, when he addressed a meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers Monday evening in the music room of Victoria Public Library.

"One of the best features is the 'Schedule A' list of 32 ailments, including cancer, heart trouble, high blood pressure, obesity and scarlet fever. The act states that 'No person shall advertise any food, drug, cosmetic or device to the general public as a treatment, preventive or cure for any of the diseases, disorders or abnormal physical states mentioned in 'Schedule A'."

President Mrs. J. L. Andrews introduced the speaker and Mrs. R. McDonald thanked him. A field trip to B.C. Forest Products on Nov. 5 was announced.

Speaking on the subject, "How Food Inspection Benefits the Consumer," Mr. Ketcheson told the meeting that the food and drug industry is in the process of revolutionary changes.

"These changes are expected to gain momentum as the years pass. No one factor is responsible, but scientific discoveries and machines are playing major roles," he said.

The meeting learned that the food and drug directorate in Ottawa has just moved into a new two and a half-million dollar building. There are five main directorates linked with the Ottawa one, at Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Giving a brief history of food laws, Mr. Ketcheson said that the first food law was recorded in the reign of King John in England. A person selling underweight bread had the loaf slung around his neck and was pulled around the main streets of the town. In 1350 it was noted that anyone selling bad wine was forced to drink as much of it as he could, and then the remainder of it was poured over his head.

The first Canadian food and drug law was passed in 1874, as a result of a dispute over watered and bad liquor. At that time over half the liquors were adulterated.

"The Food and Drug Act, as it stands now, is probably the

TEENS

Mom Vs. Daughter

"You're going out in that!" rates high on the list of questions teen-agers wish their parents would never ask.

Somehow, many parents never seem to understand the clothing patterns of teen-agers. It's not surprising, since a party of one kind calls for socks and knee pants, a party of another kind calls for a dreamy dress. Yet the young lady of the house explains in both cases that she's going to a party, without differentiation.

One young lady had this problem to a very severe degree. With her mother, any mention of "dancing" called for gloves. She insisted that her daughter wear them when leaving the house. The young lady hid them in the bushes.

The mother was set in her ideas and the daughter made no effort to explain or show her different ones.

Other cases of this type include girls who feel they have to keep their party dresses at other girls' homes, girls who feel they have to scrub off lipstick before arrival home, teenagers who peel off socks or hair ribbons on the way to school. This is a tough problem. A mother's intentions are generally the best. She wants her daughter to look pretty. The girl wants to look like everyone else.

A possible solution is having the crowd over to your house so your mother may see that knee pants, or whatever, are commonly worn and not so bad-looking.

Rabinoff, Wife Better as Team

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
Times Music Critic

It is possible that neither Benno nor Sylvia Rabinoff, individually, could be rated among the all-time peers of their respective instruments, but as a violin-piano team they soar above any other team—and that includes other instrumental combinations—that this reviewer has heard.

At the same time their individual artistic skills are not to be under-rated. In concert Tuesday night at the Royal Theatre, Rabinoff proved to be an astonishing and highly satisfying violinist, while his wife, as partner-accompanist, approached perfection as nearly as is humanly possible.

UNCANNY
Rabinoff's ability to astound lies in his quite uncanny facility with the bow. Such complete flexibility, delicacy and control is rare, even among the foremost violinists of the day.

Almost it seems to be a living part of himself, carrying out the most intricate, lace-like figures in a whisper, flinging a shower of staccato notes into the air, or swooping boldly through a headlong bravura passage.

The program was well chosen to display this outstanding feature of his violin mastery; the Vitali Chaconne, Ravels "Tzigane" and his own arrangement of the 24th Paganini Caprice, giving him wide scope.

Throughout, Sylvia, accompanying entirely by memory, provided her husband with a most sympathetic and artistic partnership. She produces a tone that is ineffably lovely, and particularly in the Beethoven "Kreutzer" Sonata, revealed herself as an artist of fine stature.

In the variations, there were passages that certainly equalled, if they did not excel most recorded versions at present in existence. Her technique is comprehensive but never obtrusive, so beautifully is it balanced by a well-developed artistic perception.

However, it is as a team they must be judged in the final summation and as a team they gave their audience a delightful evening, whether they were playing the lovely, atmospheric "Poeme" by Chausson, or the amusing and brilliant Studies in Jazz by Robert Russell Bennett.

UNESCO Officials Cleared by Court

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — The International Court of Justice today upheld a ruling by the International Labor Organization's tribunal granting damages to four American UNESCO officials for wrongful dismissal. The court ruled by 10 votes to three that the tribunal's decision was "no longer open to challenge."

SEARCH ENDS—Producer-director Otto Preminger plants a kiss on the cheek of 17-year-old Jean Seberg in New York after she was chosen for the title role in Preminger's film version of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan." The Marshalltown, Ia., girl was chosen out of 18,000 applicants in a "new face" search.

MOVIE WORLD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Correspondent at Hollywood

HOLLYWOODITES are talking about: Bob Mitchum climbing trees and fighting sea turtles on location in the movie, "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison." Says Bob: "The writers haven't quite decided whether I'm an ape or an alligator." ... John Carradine's wife, Sonya Sorel, slated for $500-a-month support of the couple's three boys as part of their divorce settlement. There will be no alimony for Sonya.

A new type of movie theatre—a walk-in-slatted for construction in Australia. An outdoor screen facing landscaped lawns where patrons will watch movies while sitting in canvas deck chairs.

BOB HOPE'S open-letter answer to Ben Hecht's open-letter blast about the cutting and blow-torching of Katherine Hepburn from "The Iron Petticoat," a movie on which Bob and Ben worked as partners. Some of Bob's wordage:

"I am most understanding. The way things are going you simply can't afford to be associated with a bit. As for Miss Hepburn, I don't think she was depressed when the preview audience raved about her performance."

Inside on Hecht's part: MGM, which will release the British-made film in the U.S.A., cut a half hour from the two-hour flicker.

SPIKE JONES' confession that he tested Elvis Presley a couple of years ago for a job with his band. His verdict: "Young man, my advice to you is go back to stealing hub caps. You'll never make it." Some people may still agree with Spike.

Edward Small's plans for a movie with a Timbuktu background. To date the producer has registered the following titles: "East of Timbuktu," "North of Timbuktu," "The Road to Timbuktu," "South of Timbuktu," "West of Timbuktu," "The Timbuktu Theme" and just plain old "Timbuktu," too.

Well, at least Marilyn Monroe doesn't have to get mixed up in this thing. There was no mention of "The Brothers Timbuktu."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, OCT. 25, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Your work flows along very smoothly by adopting a new viewpoint, by adding more charm and greater value in whatever manner is possible. Stop relying on co-workers, for they are resentful, could now nullify much of your progress. You do it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Fine day for entertainment, amusements, getting apparel and clothing accessories, seeing those toward whom you are romantically drawn, enjoying youngsters and happy persons. Make sure you do side-step dull drudgeries. They bring discontent.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—You can get matters connected with your home and family, as well as in property concerns, by making your own residence, dealing with kin as they most desire. Forewarn going out to expensive places of entertainment or you reduce assets.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Get out of the house. Shop. Make purchases. Show outside contacts that you value their good will, go along with them to gain joint success. Any chance taken at home lessens the spirit of fellowship, good will there.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Now you can add all kinds of charm and better conditions to your assets of a personal nature as well as real estate. Think big now. Get some object d'art. Be sure to use more than usual care on highway or you might get restricted awhile.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—You have all kinds of excellent judgment how to increase your charm and show others the talents with which you are most deeply endowed. Make sure you avoid commitments of a material nature. Concentrate on getting your best points across.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—You have to double-check any personal matters today or where you're in any way involved with those in power. Fine day for serving others, getting confidential data from those able to extend such to you. Keep in strict secrecy or you lose out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You want to get away from that frustration that has been upsetting you a while. Good friends and stalwart supporters agree wholeheartedly with you and give excellent suggestions how to do so. Make new start now to gain hopes, wishes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Friends who honestly don't understand the rounded picture of your aims try to give you advice that just fails to fit your needs. Instead, go to officials, authorities whose experience makes them savvy your goals. Follow their pointers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Side-step those officials, executives who like to throw their weight around. Instead make new beginning by searching for data you need and co-operate with merchandising, able associates to put into motion. Plan contract, agreement today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Be careful on the highway or making any expansiveness or travelling. Rather seek ways to increase your assets by more work of a congenial nature. Fine for matters connected with jewelry, talents, deep hunch of material nature. P.M. enjoy good time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—You don't have to spend considerable on costly pleasures. This day finds you able to get together with one well able to pay his or her own way and to have a good time. See to it that you thoroughly enjoy congenial recreations now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY... Thursday's child is one of those very attractive youngsters who will have more success in the world of art, music, social life, pleasures or business interests connected or allied with them than in strictly financial occupations that have a background of mundane, conventional banking or other such policies. At the full moon, your child is apt to be restless, discontented. But it's a "divine discontent" that makes possible real accomplishment. Just you lavish great affection at such times on your progeny.

Live Polio Virus Fed Infants

CLINTON, N.J. (AP)—Newborn infants are being fed live polio virus in their bottles at the state reformatory for women here to trace their hereditary resistance to the crippling disease.

The tests, first ever given children under six months of age, are being conducted on children of prisoners by the Lederle Laboratories, American Cyanamid Co. None of the children has contracted the disease.

Some 34 mothers volunteered their children to be given the live virus, mixed in their formula from an eyedropper.

The studies are to determine the active antibody response of infants while still possessing immunity inherited from their mothers.

Tuesday Lederle announced that it had given live virus to 600 volunteers over the last six years. Lederle is trying to perfect a long-lasting vaccine that can be taken by mouth.

"Salk vaccine, currently in use, must be administered by hypodermic."

Funeral Service Today For A. C. Bryan, Qualicum

QUALICUM BEACH — Funeral services for Arthur Cecil Stowell Bryan, 80, a long-time resident of Qualicum Beach, who died at his home here on Sunday morning, were held at St. Mark's Anglican Church today.

The Qualicum Beach branch, Canadian Legion, was in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Bryan was born in 1876 in the New Forest, Hampshire, England, and was educated at Eton College and the Royal Military College, Sandhurst. After studying foreign languages in Europe for three years, he went to Siam, where he was manager of a tea company for 15 years.

Coming to Canada in 1912 he settled at Qualicum Beach in 1914, and assisted in clearing the ground on which the Qualicum Beach golf links are situated. He enlisted in 1916 with the 103rd Battalion, CEF, and after the war returned to Qualicum Beach where he was fisheries guardian for some years.

GOOD GOLFER

He was a charter member of Qualicum Beach branch, Canadian Legion, a former secretary of the Community Club here, and secretary of the Boy Scout committee. In his earlier days he was well known for his golfing skill, and held trophies won in England, Siam and British Columbia. He was a life member of the Primrose League in England, and was a nephew of the late Mrs. Alice C. Hargreaves, who was the original "Alice" of the famous "Alice in Wonderland" story.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Molly Bryan; two daughters, Mrs. Alex Strome of Vancouver, and Jill, at home; one grandson, and one brother in England. Interment was in the Qualicum Beach cemetery.

Whisky Forced On Children By Cab Driver

DUNCAN (CP) — A Duncan taxi driver was fined $100 and costs for contributing to juvenile delinquency by forcing liquor on a two-year-old girl and a four-year-old girl at their parents' Indian home, on the Comlaken reserve.

For supplying liquor to a teen-age Indian girl, Driver E. W. Mawle was fined $50 and costs.

The teen-age girl said she asked for the whisky, and got it from the trunk of the accused's car and also took it into her sister's home, where the children were given the liquor. Mawle told the court he had been driving from Thursday until Sunday with only snatches of sleep, and had no recollection of the offences. He said that after he quit work he took a few drinks.

PREVENTS EROSION OF VALUABLE LAND

Cowichan River Diverted To It's Original Channel

DUNCAN — Cowichan River, which for years has been eroding valuable agricultural land for a total loss of about $5,000,000, has been diverted back to the channel it followed in the last century.

The project was completed after agitation by Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, Cowichan Agricultural Society, local Indian bands, and Indian and white residents of Cowichan flats.

Situated a mile east of Duncan, and consisting of the digging of a new channel more than one-half mile long, the project was conducted as a joint venture by the federal government and Cowichan Indian

This new channel apparently is shown on a map of 1870 as the original river channel, and Indians blame a tremendous log drive from Cowichan Lake in 1901 for a huge jam which diverted the river from its original course.

The original river bed had been completely filled in, and overgrown with trees, but discovery of a long piece of steel cable at a depth of 12 feet seems to indicate it had been a river bed since the arrival of the white man.

For many years the adjacent area has suffered severe flooding damage and erosion. Estimates of loss are based on the washing away of 100 acres of topsoil extending to a depth of six feet, and valued at $6 per cubic yard.

J. V. Boys, Indian agent here, stated many more Indians were in danger of losing their lands if the diversion project had not been undertaken.

The new—or original—channel, running straight between tree-linked banks, is expected to eliminate further flooding and erosion.

A small amount of water, however, will be allowed to go through the former channel for some time, in order that all salmon and young fry that might be in the stream may escape.

Quinsam Diversion Job Awarded Vancouver Firm

Contract for $994,035 for the diversion of the Quinsam River into the Campbell Lakes power storage area has been awarded to Vancouver Pile Driving and Construction Co. Ltd. and Belmont Construction Co. Ltd., the B.C. Power Commission announced here today.

The work will include dredging of a channel between Upper Quinsam and Wokas Lakes; the building of a concrete storage dam, with a crest length of 102 feet, at the outlet of Wokas Lake; a 45-foot high diversion dam on the Quinsam, two miles downstream from Wokas Lake; and a 6,000-foot diversion canal between the Quinsam River and Gooseck Lake. From Gooseck Lake the diverted flow will follow the natural stream bed down Miller Bend Creek to Lower Campbell Lake.

MINIMUM FLOW

Provision will be made for the maintenance of minimum flow conditions for fisheries below Quinsam Falls.

Purpose of the diversion is to provide increased storage in lower Campbell Lake for the operation of the Ladore Falls power plant, due to be opened later this fall, and the John Hart plant.

Still pending are plans of the commission for the diversion of the Heber and Salmon Rivers into the Campbell River system. The Heber flows westward into Gold River and the Salmon northeastward.

Industrial Boom Predicted For Courtenay Area by IWA

COURTENAY (CP)—An industrial boom that will virtually change the economic prosperity of the Courtenay-Campbell River area is forecast by the local office of the International Woodworkers of America.

Preparations are now being made by large industrial firms for expansion, states Jacob Epp, financial secretary of the Courtenay local.

"With the diversion by the B.C. Power Commission of the three rivers—Heber, Salmon and Quinsam—into the Upper Campbell Lake development, a new big power potential is created."

Having made a recent survey of the Heber River area, Mr. Epp states the water, which presently flows to the west coast of Vancouver Island, will be diverted to flow to the east coast.

"Additional forest claims on the best logging area left on the Island were purchased by the Elk River Timber Company in the Gold River area," said Mr. Epp.

BILLION FEET
This timber will provide logs for over a 20-year period and is estimated to scale close to a billion feet.

"The IWA will press very strongly for the connection of the Elk River road and Tahsis roads on the west coast of the Island, thus opening up the entire area from the east to west coasts."

"There would only be seven miles of road to build to connect the two coasts by road," he said.

AROUND AND ABOUT

With Jo Healy

The vast discontent smouldering within me could be attributed to the fact that early this morning some killjoy pointed a portentous finger at the hills across the lake, uttering at the same time a hollow croak that sounded like "Snow!" I looked and it was. Not just a delicate icing of snow, barely riming the tips of the trees, but a goodly fall extending to the edge of the timberline, some hundred feet down the slope. It looks like a long winter, kiddies. Longer, in fact, than last

Me—and Countless More Like Me

Consider my plight and the plight of countless women like me, who have reared into 'teen age the youngest of the only family they intend to rear, and who are still comparatively youthful in a world that no longer gasps or creates headlines over the news that someone has reached his or her 100th birthday. We are fortyish, we women, give or take a couple or three years, and we live, with a promise of permanency, in a one-industry community where women's place is unequivocally in the home.

So most of us arise early to get one or two remaining high school students away and friend husband off to work. We do the dishes and make the beds and tidy the house which somehow, with no small fry about, is never very cluttered. Maybe it's wash day, but the clothes are few and not too soiled, so that doesn't take long, nor does the ironing. We plan the evening meal and it's not yet noon, and our time's our own until late afternoon.

Oh yes, the hours are put to good use. Some of us sew and some of us knit; some of us visit and some of us just read the spendthrift hours away. But however they are spent, there gradually creeps over us women, who have been constantly useful every hour of every day for 20 years or so, a feeling of—well, almost inadequacy.

Any Moron Can Do Our Little Share

The feeling grows, imperceptibly and unacknowledged at first—that any moron can achieve our little effort, that we're no longer contributing a great deal, and certainly we're hardly earning our living. There comes a growing reluctance to spend on ourselves money that we haven't fairly earned, and like the active men and women who are arbitrarily retired at 65, the urge for self-sufficiency is with us still. And though a few of us may have a means of earning the dollars necessary to keep us in cigarettes and cosmetics, that cold little sensation that our usefulness is, if not ended, at least suspended, chills our spirits.

What to do about us? I don't know. But I do know that my part in the scheme of things becomes, in my own eyes, quite trivial; and nobody can kid me that my smiling (sic) face, greeting the weary at the door each evening, compensates for the things I don't do that I used to do because they no longer need be done. Or do you follow?

NIGHTMARE NEAR BAMFIELD

Flaming Sea Swim Survived By Men

PORT ALBERNI—Two Alberni Valley men survived a nightmare swim through a sea aflame with gasoline when their 28-foot boat exploded shortly after 2.30 p.m., Tuesday, in Kelp Bay, near Bamfield.

In West Coast General Hospital, after having been plucked from a rocky reef on Vancouver Island's rugged west coast, is James McDonnell, about 27, suffering from burns to the face, arms and hands. He is reported to be in fair condition.

Skipper of the small craft, George Chamberland, Alberni, escaped with minor burns.

Chamberland said the explosion occurred as the small boat, the Tide Water, employed on salvage work, plied between Nah Point and Bamfield.

He said McDonnell was trying to start the motor after an engine failure when the battery exploded, igniting a cargo of gasoline. The boat was still some distance from shore when the explosion took place.

Both men had to dive overboard into the blazing sea. McDonnell spent more than half an hour in the water, swimming below the waves for as long as possible while the surface burned. He is reported to have come up twice for air during the brief but fierce fire.

Suffering agonies from the salt water in his burns, McDonnell finally crawled ashore onto the rocks to await rescue. Without assistance of any kind he lay for one and a half hours before the pilot boat Raleigh came to his aid.

A passing aircraft is believed to have raised the first alarm on seeing smoke from the burning boat, at that time aground on a reef.

An emergency call to Bamfield saw the pilot boat rush to the aid of the stricken men with the Bamfield lifeboat standing by.

On returning to the cable station town, both men received first aid from an unidentified nurse.

"I don't know who that girl was, but she deserves all the praise in the world," Chamberland told the Times.

Pacific Western Airlines put on an emergency flight to bring the men to Port Alberni, where they were treated by Dr. R. A. Burns. Chamberland was released after treatment, but McDonnell is still in hospital.

Chamberland said McDonnell was "terrific. He behaved like a real soldier. He was wonderful, but refused to talk about his own share in the experience."

Poles Free Rioters

LONDON (AP)—Radio Warsaw announced tonight that all except three of the 154 Poles indicted for the June 28 Poznan riots have been set free.

The radio said that among those freed were seven defendants sentenced to prison terms in one of the two riot trials concluded so far.

The only defendants still held in jail are three youths sentenced for the fatal beating of a secret police corporal during the "bread and freedom" uprising. They received terms of four and four and one-half years.

'Down With Russia'

Tonight in Warsaw troops stood idly by as a crowd of 2,000 students brought traffic to a standstill by marching through Warsaw streets shouting "down with Russia."

Wladyslaw Gomulka, first secretary of the party, addressed a mass meeting this afternoon in the enormous square before Warsaw's 35-story palace of culture. (See Gomulka profile, page 7.)

Gomulka told a cheering crowd "the Russian troops will be back inside their bases inside of 48 hours."

Close to 250,000 persons heard his pledge. Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz earlier today told the Russians forcefully Poland's relations with the Soviet Union in the future will be based on full equality.

His address to Parliament followed reports the Soviet Communist boss, Nikita S. Khrushchev, had backed down in his quarrel with the Poles and apologized.

Jailed Prelate Freed Soon

Responsible sources also reported Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Roman Catholic primate of Poland, will be released in a few days if the situation in Poland continues quiet. Cyrankiewicz, scheduled to fly to Moscow this week, indicated today Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky remains in good standing in the Community party, despite his ouster from the politburo last week. He asserted, however, that in the future Russian troops in Poland will be restricted exclusively to bases granted by treaty.

Reds to Stay In Own Bases

In the next few days, he said, all Russian troops will be stationed exclusively at bases whose existence stems from international treaties. Reflecting the ever-present Polish fear of German reunification, Cyrankiewicz added: "These treaties are dictated by our security, especially in the face of German revisionism."

Germans still lay claim to areas taken over by the Poles after the Second World War. Cyrankiewicz said members of the Polish Communist politburo will meet with members of the Soviet Communist presidium next week.

Rebels Defy Ultimatum

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

VIENNA—Budapest radio announced tonight that anti-Soviet rebels fighting Russian and Hungarian soldiers in Budapest had defied the latest government ultimatum to surrender, and that a state of emergency had been declared.

Fighting was raging in the city. Russian troops, tanks and heavy armored cars ranged through Budapest streets echoing with machine gun and rifle fire, first eyewitnesses to reach the west reported.

Two German businessmen who arrived at the Austria-Hungarian border said "heavy street fighting was going on" when they left the Hungarian capital this morning. They said that "Russian tanks and heavy armored cars had blocked almost every street intersection in downtown Budapest."

"Russian troops have completely surrounded the city in a circle with a diameter of 30 kilometers (18½ miles)."

"When we left the Hotel Duna this morning we heard machine gun fire and rifle shots all over the city."

"Fire has been set to several Communist party shops and official buildings," one of the businessmen said.

"We thought war had broken out again. At one of the street intersections we passed on the way out of town, we saw one dead Russian soldier lying beside a Soviet tank."

The businessmen added that ambulances were rushing through the streets of Budapest before they left.

They said the main highway to Budapest is blocked by Russian troops about 18 miles west of the capital.

Foreigners are permitted to leave the city, but none can enter it, they said.

They said the country looks quiet between Budapest and the Hungarian border but several road blocks with armed Russian soldiers have been established.

Jet Fighters Open Fire

Hours after martial law had been proclaimed throughout the country, it was reported that jet fighters opened fire on "counter revolutionaries" near the Houses of Parliament.

The number of civilians and soldiers killed was not reported. It did not say whether the planes were Soviet or Hungarian jets.

The rebellion spread outside the capital city. Radio Budapest said "rioters vainly tried to take over the magnesium mines of Tatabanya and Salgotarjan," northwest of the capital.

It was the first official mention that the revolt was not confined to Budapest. Budapest radio was the only connecting link between the revolt-wrecked country and the outside world. All telephone and telegraph communication was cut—even to Moscow.

Budapest radio was giving a blow by blow report of history in the making—the first full scale report in the Soviet Union's eastern European empire.

What started as an intra-Communist struggle for power was now raging as a revolt against the government with anti-Communists apparently rising against Red Hungarian rule and Russian influence here.

Budapest radio described the rebels variously as "fascists," "counter-revolutionaries" and "misguided workers."

And they were armed.

Food Problem Encountered

Imre Nagy, deposed as government head last summer because of "rightist deviation," was returned to power in the bloody early hours today.

But popular as he was, he could not stop the juggernaut of rebellion raging through the beautiful Danube River city. His voice shaking with excitement, the round-faced premier broadcast a personal appeal before noon asking rebels to lay down their arms.

Those who surrendered, he said, would not be prosecuted. The fighting continued.

The entire life of the city was disrupted. Budapest radio said "serious difficulties" were already developing in supplying food.

At the same time it defended the presence of Soviet troops in the country and apparently in the thick of the fighting.

His voice betraying his own emotion, the announcer stolidly read his script saying "you should cordially welcome the Russian soldiers as friends and allies."

Workers walked off their jobs and joined in the fighting. Budapest radio's pulse-tingling account of a revolution in progress was mixed incongruously with solemn opera music.

"Workers return to your jobs," the announcer appealed. "We are calling on all Communist and party activities to aid our party and government in these serious hours."

Several clinics and hospitals came under heavy fire when rioters tried to seize control of them, Budapest radio said.

CHANNEL 5 INTERFERENCE MAY BE LESS THAN FEARED

Most TV Sets to Need Adjusting When CHEK Opens Next Month

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor
When local television station CHEK-TV comes on the air in mid-November most Victorian viewers will be hit either in their reception of adjacent Channel 5 or in the pocket book—or both.

To what degree, however, will be determined by their proximity to the Saanich transmitter at 3683 Epsom Drive, and how badly they want to receive the maximum local picture.

These were the facts presented before 126 television engineers and technicians meeting in the Flame Room of the B.C. Electric Building, Tuesday evening.

The meeting was sponsored jointly by CHEK-TV and members of the Victoria chapter of Radio Electronics Technicians' Association.

It was admitted by most speakers, however, their findings could not be considered final until CHEK-TV was on the air. Until then their disclosures, they stressed, should be considered theoretical.

Here, in brief, were their thoughts:

1. When Channel 6 begins operating almost all Victoria's 25,500 set owners will need the aid of a serviceman to tune up their sets and adjust their aerials so that maximum efficiency can be attained.

2. Set owners in that area roughly 0.8 miles from the transmitter site will be the hardest hit. Some of the oldest sets will be made obsolete. All will need the installation of traps and antenna additions and adjustments.

3. Except in the hard-hit area Channel 6 interference with Channel 5 reception may be lighter than first anticipated. Speakers were optimistic that all adjacent channel interference would be overcome by technicians.

4. Although no prices were quoted at the meeting it was learned afterwards such corrections and amendments would cost local viewers anywhere from $5 to $20.

Norman Bergquist, chief engineer CHEK-TV, outlined the area most influenced by the new channel as north to Blenkinsop Lake, south to Derby Road, east to Cedar Hill Road, west to Quadra Street.

R. J. Tate, manager of R.C.A. Victoria, was more detailed. He defined the area as "that surrounded by the heights along Richmond from Victoria College, running north along Mt. Tolmie, cutting along Gordon Head Road and long the edge of Mt. Douglas; then down to Quadra Street and Union Avenue following a line along Quadra and Cook, up Hillside to a point beyond the intersection of Fernwood with a finger running down toward the Jubilee Hospital."

Whereas nothing could be done for some of the oldest type sets in this area, Sid Spencer, RETA president, told the technicians that reception could be saved for most by addition of a special antenna pointed directly at the transmitter, plus a trap that would reduce the power of the signal and so bring sharpness and clarity and reduce ghosting for the local picture and cut down excessive interference with Channel 5.

It was felt by other speakers, including Mr. Tate, that when viewers see reception from CHEK-TV they will want to bring it in at its maximum efficiency. This, he observed, in most instances, and in all sections of the city, would require an additional aerial, one pointed directly at the transmitter. During the evening a demonstration was conducted by Roy Parrett, a radio supply company representative and local TV columnist, and Arthur L. Whitehead, an electronic equipment representative, showing disturbances to be expected on Channel 5 when Channel 6 is on the air.

During the experiment channel 6 was actually on the air. At one side of the stage a set was receiving a cowboy film from channel 5. On the other side a set carried the channel 6 pattern. So long as the output ratio was two-to-one channel 5 remained good. When, however, the power of 6 was upped 5 suffered in ratio.

But a feeling of optimism remained in the conference room following the demonstration that channel 6 would not interfere with channel 5 as much as was anticipated originally. Herbert Hoyle, Westinghouse consulting engineer from Vancouver, said he felt that most areas would receive channel 6 and channel 5 without trouble or having to add additional equipment. However, he admitted that a "reflected signal" one coming from the topography of the country side, or boomed off buildings, might be evidenced and thus "throw our calculations all off."

During the evening David M. Armstrong, president of CHEK-TV, and Charles R. White, station manager, stressed that they wanted channels 6 and 5 to be able to "live" together.

Said Mr. Armstrong: "We'd rather get our audience by good programs and good reception rather than by knocking our opposition off the screen and running the risk of alienating the public."

The meeting was chaired by Vince Mielen, past president of RETA. He was also moderator of the round-table discussion.

Manning Says He's Studying 'Dividends'

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning said Tuesday Alberta's Social Credit government is still studying the possibility of some system of returning directly to individual citizens some financial benefit from the province's natural resources revenue.

"I wouldn't say we are planning anything," he said at a press conference. But the subject was under "detailed study," Mr. Manning first announced in the legislature three years ago the intentions to have the study made.

He said 90 per cent of Alberta's resources are owned by the province and the government feels that the citizens should get some direct financial benefit in one form or another.

DELEGATION LEAVES ISLAND

B.C. Homes Impress Russian Timbermen

Soviet timber minister G. M. Orlov and the Russian forestry delegation were to leave Vancouver Island this afternoon after a final look at logging operations at Northwest Bay, north of Nanaimo.

This morning they toured woods adjacent to the MacMillan & Bloedel operation with manager B. P. Page in charge of the party.

Mr. Orlov said he intended to take back B.C. house designs, plans, and building methods when he returns to Russia. He said he was "very impressed" with houses he has seen here.

The delegation had previously toured timber industry installations near Ladysmith and Nanaimo. It is scheduled to leave for Ottawa from Vancouver Thursday.

The Calgary dairy processor touched on the price issue in a wide-ranging presidential address launching the council's three-day annual convention.

Melville Liberals Nominate Gardiner
MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner was chosen Tuesday as Liberal candidate for Melville in the next federal general election.

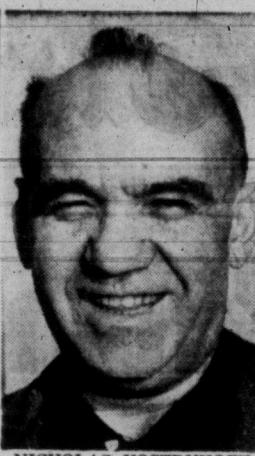

But a feeling of optimism remained in the conference room following the demonstration that channel 6 would not interfere with channel 5 as much as was anticipated originally.

However, he admitted that a "reflected signal" one coming from the topography of the country side, or boomed off buildings, might be evidenced and thus "throw our calculations all off."

AUDIENCE LOVES 'EM

Cossack Singers Inspiring, Superb

By B.A.T.

The General Platoff Don Cossacks rode again Tuesday night, with the clip-clop of horses' hooves, the yells and whistles of galloping soldiers, the flash of Cossack knives and the inspired singing that has brought this chorus world fame.

There were a few new faces since their appearance here two years ago, a few known faces missing, but there was no diminution in the quality of soloists or chorus. More than 1,000 persons filled the Central Junior High School auditorium, wildly applauded every number and called for more.

It was all there, and the audience loved it—the interlude with the pitch-pipe between each song, the mincing entrance of the conductor through the opened ranks of singers, the comic by-play, and above all the magnificent range of volume and tone that is the identifying attribute of this group.

The first section of the program was appropriately devoted to the Russian hymns which bring out so clearly the organ-like capacity of the chorus. Under the fingertip control of director Nicholas Kostukoff, the choir held the audience spellbound with Tchaikovsky's "Blessed Be the Lord," the lullaby "Hymn to the Creator," and the old favorites, "Ave Maria" and "Those Evening Bells."

From the full volume of the bass section the perfectly controlled choir would merge imperceptibly into a muted tenor passage, the last whispered chord hanging in the darkened air until the listeners could not tell whether they were hearing it or breathing it.

Parts two and three were devoted to Cossack songs and folk tunes, the chuckling "Snowball Tree" providing a fitting prelude to the laughing "Song of the Flea." The familiar "Sad Snow Over the Steppes" featured

Canadian Spells Out to U.S. Objections to Give-Aways

TOLEDO (CP)—Guy Smith, commercial counselor at the Canadian embassy in Washington, said today the much-publicized American surplus wheat disposal problem is "absolutely nothing" compared with the wheat surplus problem faced by Canada.

And yet, he told the Canadian-United States Business Conference here, Americans "appear to be much more concerned over it than we are."

Analyzing the American problem, he said the U.S. surplus appears as less than half a year's supply.

Canada will have a full year's supply left over, he said.

New Plans Proposed For City Hall, Court

Courthouse On Wharf St?

Build Right Here—Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrell said today he has recommended to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant that Victoria's proposed new courthouse be built on the waterfront side of the 1100 block, Wharf Street, between Fort and View Streets.

The location he favors is almost opposite Dowell's Carriage. He said since making the suggestion the matter has never been considered by the Capital District Improvement Commission.

The mayor said the site would permit two storeys being built below street level, for storage of records. He felt there would be adequate parking in the basement waterfront level with elevators to the courts.

"It would greatly help to beautify our waterfront," he said.

OPEN MIND

Both the mayor and Ald. Dowell are members of the CIDC, which, according to Mr. Chant, will make a recommendation on the site. Ald. Dowell says he has an "open mind" on the matter. Commission chairman R. A. Pennington said on Monday that as far as he knew the commission had not been asked to suggest a site.

Works Minister Chant said planning and drawings for the courthouse are already underway.

Three sites have been mentioned earlier: behind the old courthouse at Langley and Bastion, on the government parking lot at Belleville and Government and directly in front of Christ Church Cathedral on Quadra.

Detectives Cleared by Commission

Victoria Police Commission was told today there is no third degree or measure of force used in questioning of suspects by Victoria city police officers.

Deputy chief Harry Mercer, who attended a police commission meeting in the absence of Police Chief John Blackstock, commented on remarks in Assize Court last Thursday.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson ruled detectives Ray Maitland and Richard Berry went beyond their power in questioning a suspect in a breaking and entering case which occurred August 15.

Charge against the suspect, Ernest Dunstan, was dismissed after Mr. Justice Wilson said, "I don't want to restrict the police in their right to question suspects, but I think they went too far in this case." He said it was the duty of the court to protect citizens against being unfairly questioned.

Deputy chief Mercer told the commission, "I feel satisfied there is no third degree or force used here. In this case it was a matter of whether a statement was admissible or inadmissible. There was questioning, but there was no force. The suspect came in (voluntarily); he was not brought in."

The commission accepted the report and dropped the matter.

Partial Review Promised in Year

The B.C. Public Utilities Commission today approved a rate increase for Greater Victoria Water District customers in rural areas.

Approved was a 40 per cent increase provided that each ratepayer affected by the increase will receive also a 5 per cent reduction of their total bill.

The 5 per cent reduction will be reviewed after one year and will be cancelled if the income from the increase is not sufficient to meet anticipated cost increases.

ABOUT 75 CENTS

The PUC decision will mean an increase of about 75 cents on average water bills for residents in the unorganized territories adjacent to Victoria — View Royal, Colwood, Langford, and Metchosin areas generally.

Hearing on the increase was held October 3. The rural areas, who are now paying about 20 per cent less for water than residents of the four Greater Victoria municipalities, opposed the bid for a rate boost.

The boost was asked according to water district officials, because of higher costs of supply and maintenance of lines and meters in thinly populated areas.

Dairymen To Fight Formula

B.C. dairy farmers announced today they intend to dispute the Milk Board formula for setting the price producers receive for their milk.

The British Columbia Federation of Agriculture in Victoria revealed it is to hire a recognized expert economist to study dairy production cost factors in B.C. with a view to evolving a "more equitable formula."

"This expert will be an authority whose findings cannot help but be recognized by the B.C. Milk Board," said Charles E. S. Walls, secretary-manager of the federation.

Mr. Walls said a meeting of delegates from dairy producer organizations representing about 90 per cent of dairy farmers on Vancouver Island and in the Fraser Valley met in all-day session in Vancouver Tuesday.

The meeting was called because of dairy farmers' dissatisfaction over the formula price devised by the B.C. Milk Board, which in their settlement checks just issued for September milk gave them a price for certain classes of milk "considerably less than they were receiving even four years ago."

1,000 Face Prosecution For Poll Tax Non-Payment

Almost 1,000 Victorians today are liable for prosecution for non-payment of city road and poll taxes, according to City Hall tax collector Thomas Harris.

He said final demand notices are being sent out now, but pointed out persons who have not paid were liable for court action five days after the second reminder was received.

"Prosecutions will follow unless payment or an exemption claim is received at City Hall," he stated.

Johnson said he and his wife were sleeping about 1 a.m. when he was awakened by the sound of someone prying at a window.

"I was half asleep and walked up and listened at the window. Then the guy went around to a side window where there was no blind."

"I made a bit of noise trying to find the shoe and he disappeared again. I stood and waited for about three minutes and then he appeared at the window."

"When he flashed a small pencil flashlight I wound up and threw the shoe through the window."

Johnson said he was standing about four feet back from the window. He said it was surprising the man wasn't knocked unconscious by the shoe, which weighs about seven pounds.

Dr. Fletcher, Half Century In Medicine, Dies

Medical practitioner for 50 years, Dr. George William Fletcher, 78, died suddenly Tuesday at his home, 877 Island Road.

Prior to his retirement in 1952, Dr. Fletcher was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist here for 10 years.

Former dean of the department of Laryngology, University of Manitoba, he was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of the American Bronchoscopic Society.

He was born in Fletcher, Ont., named after his family, and graduated in medicine from the University of Toronto. Dr. Fletcher practised in Winnipeg before coming here in 1942.

Funeral services will be held at McCall's Funeral Home, Friday at 3 p.m. Dr. W. G. Wilson will officiate. Cremation will follow.

Citizen Hits Prowler With 'Health Shoe'

A prowler who attempted to break into the basement suite of Brian Johnson, 3055 Milgrove, got a rude reception early yesterday.

Johnson, who spotted the man peering through the window, picked up a heavy, cast-iron "health shoe" and threw it, striking the prowler on the forehead.

Johnson said today he then ran out the basement door and gave chase but the man had a short lead and disappeared over a neighbor's fence.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

In Saanich police court today, John Osborne Dow, 25, of Vancouver, entered a plea of not guilty to attempted breaking and entering of the suite. He was remanded one day.

Johnson said he and his wife were sleeping about 1 a.m. when he was awakened by the sound of someone prying at a window.

"I was half asleep and walked up and listened at the window. Then the guy went around to a side window where there was no blind."

"I made a bit of noise trying to find the shoe and he disappeared again. I stood and waited for about three minutes and then he appeared at the window."

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

The Indians of B.C. have finally risen up and demanded that the paleface pay for this country.

All I can say is, it is about time.

If we owe the Indians of B.C. anything, let us, by all means, pay them.

What the Indians of B.C. have neglected to say (at least so far) is how much we owe them for this country which we thought was ours but now turns out to be not paid for.

It would be nice to know how much we owe before we start paying it.

(I will admit this is contrary to general practice in B.C., especially around election time. But still.)

One way of deciding how much we owe the Indians of B.C. for the province of B.C. would be to appoint a Royal Commission of Enquiry.

The Royal Commission might require a little time to arrive at a conclusion, but the Indians have waited for 100 years, so they are used to waiting.

I would not like to be accused of attempting to influence a Royal Commission. However, I make bold to suggest the Commission use as a term of reference the most widely publicized Indian-Paleface real estate transaction yet completed, the sale of Manhattan Island.

Manhattan Island was sold by the Indians for $24, although there is some talk of a bottle of rum having been thrown in for good measure.

Manhattan Island later turned out to be comparatively worthless, it being only a portion of New York city, which, as everyone knows, isn't such a bad place to visit, but who would wish to live there?

On this basis, B.C. should be worth something in excess of $24, as just about everyone wishes to live there.

So it would seem we owe the Indians of B.C. over $24. And this is not a sum to be bandied about lightly, even with the dollar at today's value.

In fact, it is possible the Royal Commission would set the value of B.C. at as much as $29.95.

Add to that the cost of the Royal Commission itself—say, $3,000,000,000,000.01—and the people of B.C. might find it difficult to raise the necessary cash to pay off their honest debts.

In which case, only one course is open to the Indians of B.C.

They would have to make like heap big finance company, and start proceedings for repossession.

Which would be okay with a lot of us who feel it is time we gave the country back to the Indians, anyway.

How the Indians would feel about this is another question.

Ugh! I have spoken.

He admitted taking the car from the Gladwell Motors' used car lot.

The CNR, which must have access under the west end of the bridge, is being asked to make a grant of 15 per cent of the cost of building that end of the bridge.

Famed Scot Mimics Elvis; Record Sells Out in 1 Day

Ace accordionist with the White Heather variety concert party performing here tonight Will Starr, never heard of Elvis Presley before coming to Montreal in September.

Admitting to "the worst voice in the world," he made a recording in Vancouver along the Elvis efforts "for laughs."

The discs sold out in one day in a large downtown music store.

"It was silly all the way through," he said of the record.

The 32-year-old dark-haired Scot from Croy is well known in Victoria. This is his sixth visit here since 1949.

"There are a lot of Scotsmen in this city so the house is always packed!" The troupe performs tonight at 8 in the Royal Theatre and again Thursday.

$1,000 INSTRUMENT Mr. Starr obligingly pushed a few buttons of his $1,000 shoulder-machine for us today while still pyjama-clad, explaining the difference between his accordion and the piano variety.

"This is a button or continental' accordion," he said, squeezing it reverently, "and as different from the piano type as a fiddle."

Building of a new multi-storey city hall on the present city hall site will be studied by local planning groups on suggestion of Mayor Percy Scurrell.

The mayor said today he would seek reaction to a plan for construction of a new hall, or joint Victoria-Saanich hall, on the present site, with the ground floor reserved for a block of stores. He envisaged a seven-storey building.

The mayor said the idea was put forward by city manager C. C. Wyatt and city assessor Alfred Joyce. It is estimated that such a building would bring the city a revenue of from $25,000 to $30,000 a year in store rentals.

HELP PAY

This fund would be used to assist in paying for the building.

"There would be ideal parking available on the site of the present fire hall," said the mayor. "We have to go ahead with the building of a new fire hall, in any event."

The mayor said the suggestion would be forwarded for study to Capital Region Planning Board, Town Planning Commission and the special joint-hall committee of Saanich and Victoria council members under Ald. W. F. Pinfold.

At present that committee is studying use of Topaz Park or the Protestant Orphanage site for a new hall.

Rowdies Face Harsh Action On Halloween

Victoria police commission ruled today that rowdism and indiscriminate throwing of fireworks in the downtown area this Halloween "... will be stepped upon."

The warning came at conclusion of a commission meeting where it was pointed out the city has two conflicting regulations on use of fireworks.

One says fireworks may be sold in Victoria within the three days prior to Halloween including that date. Another states it is illegal to set off fireworks anywhere in the city, without express permission of city council.

Commissioner Gordon Carter clarified the stand of the police commission:

RIOT THREAT

"The use of fireworks with discretion will be overlooked. Rowdism and indiscriminate throwing of firecrackers especially in the downtown area, will be stepped upon."

Last Halloween police closed Yates between Blanshard and Douglas to traffic after rowdies threatened riot. Cars were bounced to the sidewalk, fireworks were thrown at eye level at passengers alighting from buses, fires were set in waste containers and one youth suffered crushed legs when a car he was attempting to move, backed up.

The commission laid plans for this Halloween at an earlier meeting, but has not disclosed them. It had been suggested auxiliary service police might be employed that night.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—In the recent film, "The Man Who Knew Too Much," the London Symphony Orchestra and a combined chorus performed a musical work which built up to and climaxed with a cymbal crash. At the time of the crash a foreign diplomat was to be shot. I would like to know the name of this work and if a recording of the music is obtainable—V.C.

A.—The music performed by the London Symphony Orchestra and Covent Garden Chorus, with Barbara Howitt, soloist, was the Storm Cloud Cantata by Arthur Benjamin and D. B. Wyndham-Lewis. Conductor was Bernard Herrmann. A check of record catalogues indicates that this work has not so far been recorded.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Auxiliary Announces Fashion Show

At a meeting of the Lion's Auxiliary held recently in the home of Mrs. H. R. Paulin, extensive plans were made for the fall program.

Highlight is the auxiliary's Christmas Fashion Show to be held on the fashion floor of the T. Eaton Company on Nov. 23 and 24, at 3 p.m. Tea will be served. Tickets for this affair may be obtained from the convener, Mrs. W. C. Rae, 3-0400; Mrs. Paulin, 2-4072, or on the T. Eaton fashion floor.

Plans also include a card party in the home of Mrs. M. J. Sharp on Wednesday evening, convener by Mrs. E. B. Hackett and Mrs. D. R. Ewing.

Mrs. R. H. Freeland reported $37.62 realized at rummage sale. It was decided to continue upkeep of a room at the Gorge Road Hospital which was furnished by the auxiliary and a donation of $25 was made to the Unitarian Service of Canada toward rehabilitation of needy children in other countries.

On Etiquette

About terminating phone calls:

Regarding phone conversations, who should terminate them? It seems to me that the person calling should, just as she would a visit at my home. Yet I have friends who seem to wait for me to end the conversation when they have called me. I notice on TV and radio that the person receiving the call invariably ends it. This seems rude to me, but perhaps I am old fashioned.

Louise Davis answers: Your theory is good but does not always work. Some people just don't know how to end a conversation. Some like to talk on and on with no thought whatsoever that the person on the other end of the line might be inconvenienced or pressed for time.

But the end has to come sometime, so if the caller does not make the first move the other person should begin the subtle windup. Many people making a call forget that they started the conversation or are unaware that they should end it, to them it's anybody's turn.

If a person is called to the phone while in the midst of a meal, while entertaining callers or doing an important task, she has every right to beg off with gracious apologies.

Mrs. M. H. Hansen, Langford, B.C., wishes to announce the engagement of her eldest daughter, Anne Elizabeth Peters, to Glen Howard Kellington, RCN, only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

Mothers with "near-a-year" babies frequently write me to ask why their children are losing interest in food. In some cases an appetite lag may be caused by teething. But with most babies it's due to a slow-down in the rate of growth, and a natural variation in the desire for food. If your little one is going through a "picky" period it's helpful to remember that when baby is hungry enough, he'll let you know soon enough. Rotating colors and kinds of food helps. Service with a smile (instead of a frown) often works wonders. New dishes also spur appetite interest.

Vegetable and Meat Dinners—3 Desserts—3 Meats. All have the true-flavor appeal baby's been used to in Gerber Strained Foods.

Interesting menu offerings for your toddler are to be found in "Gerber's Recipes for Toddlers."

Closed issue. When you wash baby's zipped togs, it helps to close the zippers before dunking. Saves zippers from getting bent—keeps garments in better shape.

More that's new! Toddlers dearly love "grown-up" foods and here's a new main dish with a real "grown-up" quality. Gerber Junior Beef and Noodles with Vegetables is a happy and flavorful combination of lean beef, tender egg noodles and carrot morsels for good protein content and high vitamin-A value. Gerber Beef and Noodles with Vegetables makes an ideal transitional dish between Junior Foods and regular family foods.

708 VIEW—AT DOUGLAS

TV

learned afterwards such corrections and amendments would cost local viewers anywhere from $5 to $20.

Norman Bergquist, chief engineer CHEK-TV, outlined the area most influenced by the new channel as north to Blenkinsop Lake, south to Derby Road, east to Cedar Hill Road, west to Quadra Street.

R. J. Tate, manager of R.C.A. Victoria, was more detailed. He defined the area as "that surrounded by the heights along Richmond from Victoria College, running north along Mt. Tolmie, cutting along Gordon Head Road and long the edge of Mt. Douglas; then down to Quadra Street and Union Avenue, following a line along Quadra and Cook, and thence to a point beyond the section of Fernwood with a line running down towards Jubilee Hospital."

Whereas nothing could be done for some of the oldest type sets in this area, Sid Spencer, RETA president, told the technicians that reception could be saved for most by addition of a special antenna pointed directly at the transmitter, plus a trap that would reduce the power of the signal and so bring sharpness and clarity and reduce ghosting for the local picture and cut down excessive interference with Channel 5.

It was felt by other speakers, including Mr. Tate, that when viewers see reception from CHEK-TV they will want to bring it in at its maximum efficiency. This, he observed, in most instances, and in all sections of the city, would require an additional aerial, one pointed directly at the transmitter.

During the evening demonstration was conducted by Roy Parrett, a radio supply company representative and local TV columnist, and Arthur L. Whitehead, an electronic equipment representative, showing disturbances to be expected on Channel 5 when Channel 6 is on the air.

During the experiment channel 6 was actually on the air. At one side of the stage a set was receiving a cowboy film from channel 5. On the other side a set carried the channel 6 pattern. So long as the output ratio was two-to-one channel 5 remained good. When, however, the power of 6 was upped 5 suffered in ratio.

But a feeling of optimism remained in the conference room following the demonstration that channel 6 would not interfere with channel 5 as much as was anticipated originally.

Herbert Hoyle, Westinghouse consulting engineer from Vancouver, said he felt that most areas would receive channel 6 and channel 5 without trouble or having to add additional equipment. However, he admitted that a "reflected signal," one coming from the topography of the country side, or boomed off buildings, might be evidenced and thus "throw our calculations all off."

During the evening David M. Armstrong, president of CHEK-TV, and Charles R. White, station manager, stressed that they wanted channels 6 and 5 to be able to "live" together.

Said Mr. Armstrong: "We'd rather get our audience by good programs and good reception rather than by knocking our opposition off the screen and running the risk of alienating the public."

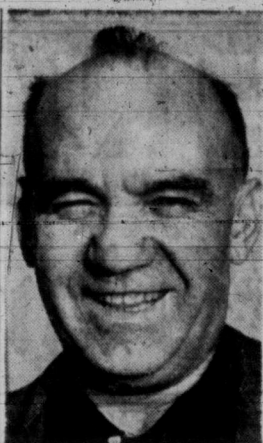

The meeting was chaired by Vince Melen, past president of RETA. He was also moderator of the round-table discussion.

Manning Says He's Studying 'Dividends'

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning said Tuesday Alberta's Social Credit government is still studying the possibility of some system of returning directly to individual citizens some financial benefit from the province's natural resources revenue.

"I wouldn't say we are planning anything," he said at a press conference. But the subject was under "detailed study," Mr. Manning first announced in the legislature three years ago the intentions to have the study made.

He said 90 per cent of Alberta's resources are owned by the province and the government feels that the citizens should get some direct financial benefit in one form or another.

The delegation had previously toured timber industry installations near Ladysmith and Nanaimo. It is scheduled to leave for Ottawa from Vancouver Thursday.

AUDIENCE LOVES 'EM

Cossack Singers Inspiring, Superb

By B.A.T.

The General Platoff Don Cossacks rode again Tuesday night, with the clip-clop of horses' hooves, the yells and whistles of galloping soldiers, the flash of Cossack knives and the inspired singing that has brought this chorus world fame.

There were a few new faces since their appearance here two years ago, a few known faces missing, but there was no diminution in the quality of soloists or choruses. More than 1,000 persons filled the Central Junior High School auditorium, wildly applauded every number and called for more.

It was all there, and the audience loved it—the interlude with the pitch-pipe between each song, the mincing entrance of the conductor through the opened ranks of singers, the comic by-play, and above all the magnificent range of volume and tone that is the identifying attribute of this group.

The first section of the program was appropriately devoted to the Russian hymns which bring out so clearly the organ-like capacity of the chorus. Under the fingertip control of director Nicholas Kostukoff, the choir held the audience spellbound with Tschalkovsky's "Blessed Be the Lord," the lullaby-like "Hymn to the Creator," and the old favorites, "Ave Maria" and "Those Evening Bells."

From the full volume of the bass section the perfectly controlled choir would merge imperceptibly into a muted tenor passage, the last whispered ing tenor soloist Kenneth Lane, was particularly popular. Bartones G. Kelkavov and J. Assur also won applause.

As in previous performances, Cossack Lazzika and dagger dancers added color and warmth to the evening. There was, however, only one beard among the score of singers—a relatively modest affair in the style of the late Czar Nicholas.

The chorus left immediately after the performance, traveling by bus to Nanaimo en route to an engagement tonight in Tacoma. The concert was sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis Club, net proceeds going to the Kiwanis Junior Safety Patrol.

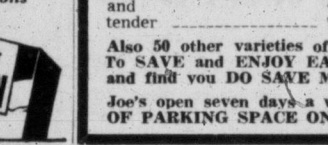

chord hanging in the darkened air until the listeners could not tell whether they were hearing it or breathing it.

Parts two and three were devoted to Cossack songs and folk tunes, the chuckling "Snowball Tree" providing a fitting prelude to the laughing "Song of the Flea." The familiar "Sad Snow Over the Steppes" featur-

Canadian Spells Out to U.S. Objections to Give-Aways

TOLEDO (CP)—Guy Smith, commercial counselor at the Canadian embassy in Washington, said today the much-publicized American surplus wheat disposal problem is "absolutely nothing" compared with the wheat surplus problem faced by Canada.

And yet, he told the Canadian United States Business Conference here, Americans "appear to be much more concerned over it than we are."

Analyzing the American problem, he said the U.S. surplus appears as less than half a year's supply.

Canada will have a full year's supply left over, he said.

The government with anti-Communists apparently rising against Red Hungarian rule and Russian influence here. Budapest radio described the rebels variously as "fascists," "counter-revolutionaries" and "misguided workers." And they were armed. Imre Nagy, deposed as government head last summer because of "rightist deviation," was returned to power in the bloody early hours today. But popular as he was, he could not stop the juggernaut of rebellion raging through the beautiful Danube River city.

His voice shaking with excitement, the round-faced premier broadcast a personal appeal before noon asking rebels to lay down their arms.

Those who surrendered, he said, would not be prosecuted. The fighting continued. The entire life of the city was disrupted.

Budapest radio said "serious difficulties" were already developing in supplying food. At the same time it defended the presence of Soviet troops in the country and apparently in the thick of the fighting.

His voice betraying his own emotion, the announcer stolidly read his script saying "you should cordially welcome the Russian soldiers as friends and allies."

Workers walked off their jobs and joined in the fighting. Budapest radio's pulse-tingling account of a revolution in progress was mixed in these serious hours.

"Workers return to your jobs," the announcer appealed. "We are calling on all Communist and party activities to aid for party and government progress in these serious hours."

Five Seek Three Council Seats In Saanich; Only One Newcomer

Five candidates today announced they will seek election to Saanich municipal council in December.

Candidates include three councillors whose term of office expires this year, a former councillor and a newcomer in municipal politics.

There are three vacant seats this year and one opening on the Saanich police commission now held by George Askey who is expected to seek re-election.

Councillors who will run again are George Austin, Eugene Diespecker and Ainslee Worthington. Mr. Austin said he may reconsider his decision at some later date, but at present feels he should seek re-election.

TO TRY AGAIN

S. W. Brock, a former councillor, who was defeated by a narrow margin in last year's election, will run for office.

The newcomer in municipal politics is Stanley Murphy, 4634 Vantreight Lane, a 40-year-old teacher of English and journalism at Victoria High School.

Born in Edmonton, educated in Victoria and a graduate of the University of British Columbia, Mr. Murphy is the first teacher in the Greater Victoria area to take advantage of an amendment to the Municipal Election Act passed by the legislature last year permitting teachers to seek municipal office.

Others considered as possible contenders are Ted Cummins, a former councillor who contested the reeveship against former reeve Joseph Casey three years ago; and Harold Todd, a post office employee who has fought four election battles for a seat on the council.

Employment Official Minimizes Fear of Big Lay-Off in Woods

VANCOUVER (CP)—There are no signs "at the moment" which point to a general rise in unemployment here this winter, an Unemployment Insurance Commission official said Tuesday.

William McKinstry, the commission's Pacific director, said unemployment figures to date are about the same as those at this time last year.

He expressed surprise at International Woodworkers' Union reports there will be widespread unemployment in the timber industry this winter and that other industries will be affected.

IWA said 800 men already had been laid off. La Verendrye and his sons between 1736 and 1743 were the first white men in Manitoba's Red River valley.

story." Mr. McKinstry said. "But I don't see any reason to become alarmed."

He said the 800 men are a small percentage of some 14,000 timber industry workers and that if "we have a good winter, the situation should be about the same as last year."

BIRDS DIDN'T BUTT FAG

BROCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—The fire which caused $10,000 damage to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook has been blamed on nesting birds. Fire Chief George A. Marks said the fire started among nests in the eaves "most probably" after a bird returned with a discarded but still burning cigarette butt.

More Overseas Markets Needed By Canada Says U.S. Businessman

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—With major new supplies of iron ore, petroleum and gas now available, Canada will have a new urge of industrial expansion, Marshall E. Young of St. Louis, Mo., predicted in an address Tuesday night to the Canadian Exporters' Association.

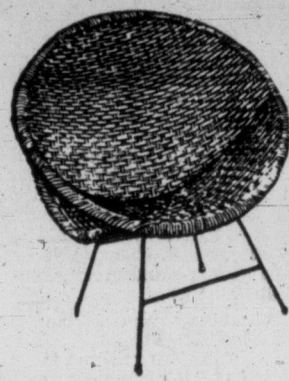

Mr. Young, who is vice-president of Monsanto Chemical Co., said this would mean "new competition among yourselves" for mass markets at home and abroad, and need for bigger overseas market.
